Havana Issue Up for Debate In UN Council

Effort to be Made To Refer Problem To American States

United Nations, N. Y. — Cuba and the United States bring their charges and countercharges of economic aggression before the U.N. Security council today.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa had a 2-hour speech ready in support of his government's complaint against the United States. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge prepared a 1-hour reply.

After this exchange, Argentina and Ecuador were expected to propose that the 11-nation council suspend consideration of the dispute while the Organization of American States (OAS) takes it up.

Diplomats said that if Cuba opposed this proposal and her friend the Soviet Union voted against it, Mario Amadeo of Argentina and Jose A. Correa of Ecuador would argue the resolution was procedural and therefore the negative Soviet vote did not count as a veto. Amadeo and Correa were reported hopeful of winning Cuba over — and thus avoiding a Soviet negative vote — by putting a provision in the resolution calling for conciliation.

Anti-Red Demonstration in Havana Follows Cathedral Mass for Persecution Victims

BY ROBERT BERRELLEZ

Havana — "Cuba si, Russia no!" shouted crowds of Catholics following an anti-communist mass yesterday at Havana's cathedral. It was the most spectacular anti-red demonstration since Fidel Castro's regime took the turn to the left.

In a switch from the "Cuba si! Yankees no!" chanted by Castro's followers on every occasion, churchgoers vented their feelings against the government trend following a mass dedicated to "victims of communist persecution."

A handful of hecklers had to be rescued by a police car when they shouted "Cuba si! Yankees no!" at the throng which poured into cathedral square after the mass. Men and women pounded on the police car with fists and pocketbooks as the hecklers were escorted to safety.

Two uniformed but unarmed militiamen got the same treatment and had to be rescued by police.

Castro, reported mending after a lung infection, continued silent as the thorny dispute between his regime and the United States moved into world and regional organizations.

Cuban Defense Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, arrived in Moscow yesterday. He is believed to be seeking more economic and military aid from the Soviet Union. It was considered likely his visit also would include discussion of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plans to visit Cuba soon.

Khrushchev already has pledged help for the island kept silent by the United States in its dispute with the United States. The U. S. administration in turn has warned the communists that the Monroe Doctrine is still very much alive and the United States will not tolerate communist interference in Latin America.

Japanese Diet Elects Ikeda as New Premier

Confronted With Left-Wing Crisis In Miners' Strike

Tokyo — Tough, outspoken Hayato Ikeda was elected prime minister of Japan today and immediately faced an explosive left-wing crisis at a strike-torn Kyushu coal mine.

The 60-year-old financial expert won overwhelming approval over two socialist opponents in both houses of parliament to succeed Nobusuke Kishi, who stepped out after 31 years in office. Kishi is recovering from leg stab wounds inflicted by a rightist assailant July 14.

A continuation of pro-western policies through alliance with America is assured, although the government is expected to be short-lived. New nationwide parliamentary elections are planned this fall.

Never in Doubt Ikeda's election never was in doubt. The liberal-democratic party, which has sizeable majorities in both houses of parliament, chose him last week to succeed Kishi as party president.

The vote in the lower house was 275 for Ikeda to 159 for his two socialist opponents. The vote in the upper house was 143-84.

Battle lines are already drawn for a bloody clash — possibly Tuesday — between 13,000 police and 30,000 to 100,000 striking workers, communists and radical students entrenched behind barbed wire at the Miike coal mine in Kyushu.

A showdown appeared to be shaping up between the authority of police, trying to enforce a court injunction to clear out the strikers, and the same rebellious forces that pledged help for the island kept silent by the United States in its dispute with the United States.

The U. S. administration in turn has warned the communists that the Monroe Doctrine is still very much alive and the United States will not tolerate communist interference in Latin America.

Von Horn in Command of UN Troops

BY ANDREW BOROWIEC

Leopoldville, Congo — Swedish Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn today took command of U. N. military forces in the Congo as Congolese officials threatened to ask Russian troops to intervene.

Von Horn and his staff arrived from Palestine, where he has headed the U. N. truce mediation commission. Troops for his force were already on hand from four African nations—Ghana, Tunisia, Morocco and Ethiopia—but most of the job of trying to restore order still fell on the 6,000 Belgian troops fanned out over the vast new central African nation.

The continued presence of the Belgian troops angered the government of Premier Patrice Lumumba, and a cabinet minister announced that the Soviet Union would be asked to send in troops unless Belgium withdrew her forces within three days. The Belgians made no move to comply but western officials were gravely concerned over the development.

Cabinet Meets (The Belgian cabinet met today in Brussels in an emergency session to consider the Congo's threat to ask for Soviet troops unless Belgian soldiers are withdrawn by tomorrow.

"The situation is very serious," Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny told reporters after the meeting.

Ministers emerged from the session with tense, tired faces. None but the foreign minister would comment. A government spokesman emphasized, however, that Belgian troops are in the Congo to remain as long as needed.

Wigny left for The Hague to inform his colleagues of the five other European Economic Community nations.

Red Riots Backfire

Italian Blocs Unite, Back Government

BY JAMES M. LONG

Rome — The communist attempt to overthrow the Italian government by force today appeared to have backfired.

As a result of the communist-led rioting earlier this month, the alarmed small parties of the center closed ranks with the ruling Christian democrats.

The new government being formed is likely to return the Reds' public enemy No. 1, tough Sicilian Mario Scelba, to the post of interior minister. It was Scelba who, as interior minister, formed the red-deep riot police who smashed the great communist disorders here in 1947-48.

This month, for the second time in 13 years, the tough riot police proved they could put down large-scale red-led disorders. It took gunfire to do it, and 11 were killed and 1,000 injured in hand-to-hand battling in the big squares of major cities from the Alps to Sicily.

Police Still Watchful After a week of calm, massive forces of riot police and battle-armed carabinieri (national police) still stand at the alert in side streets off most of Italy's big city squares. Their presence emphasizes Premier Fernando Tambroni's warning that Italy will be governed in parliament and not by rioters in the public squares.

Tambroni's Christian democratic party said it supported his police action in smashing the disorders. The Christian democrats lack a parliamentary majority and other center parties opposed him.

When he announced in parliament last Thursday that he would quit if a solid center alliance could be formed to replace his government, the communists and socialists shouted gleefully that they had forced him out; but this weekend, when a solid center agreement was reached, the left-wing cheering began to take on a hollow note.

Nelson Hails Strong Ticket

Governor Declares Johnson Won't Hurt Wisconsin Campaign

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said today he would not have favored selection of Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) as the Democratic Party's vice presidential nominee if he had been consulted, but predicted Johnson's name would not be a drag on the ticket in Wisconsin.

"I would not have selected Johnson myself," he told a news conference, "and would have counseled against it if I had been asked."

The governor said the party's national slate would be helpful to him in his bid for a second term.

Nelson returned from the Democratic national convention Sunday night, stopping in Oregon where he visited relatives. He was an alternate in Wisconsin's delegation, which gave 231 of its 31 votes to Kennedy.

The governor said he had favored Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) for the second

In another farm accident, the son of the pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church suffered severe facial and scalp wounds and broken bones.

Both are in critical condition at Shavano Community hospital.

Martin Brodagen, 41, had his right arm pulled from the socket while attempting to adjust a jammed self-unloading chopper wagon.

He stumbled to his home after the accident with his 12-year-old son following carrying the severed arm. The motorist attracted by his wife's screams took Brodagen to the hospital where he was treated for shock and loss of blood.

Rockefeller to Give Views on Platform

Says He Turned Down Bid To Second Nomination of Vice President Nixon

Washington — A new quest to second Nixon's nomination was an official bid from the Nixon camp. He said Sen. Johnson was going all out to support the platform, including civil rights. Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) voiced the opinion that Republicans would court disaster if they softened their civil rights stand to appeal to southern voters. He proposed the one adopted by the Democrats and adding an anti-fiftieth anniversary provision. Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he hoped the GOP would provide as strong a civil rights plank as did the Democrats. Wilkins called it a Johnson "doer" and indicated he does not object to Rockefeller's nomination.

Most party leaders for months have considered Rockefeller a sure bet for the presidential nomination. Former Wash. Republican National Chairman H. Meade Alcorn, Jr., prepared to take said Sunday, the likelihood of over from Paul Butler, who Rockefeller heading the GOP held the post for more than five years.

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Back to school has innumerable important aspects. One of the most important is the child's health. A child who is healthy is a child who is happy and who is able to learn to the fullest extent.

School authorities and health officials are particularly concerned about good hearing and eyesight and sound teeth. Children take pride in having a perfect record as far as these health matters are concerned.

Your child's health during formative years may determine his whole future.

If your children are especially active... and most healthy children are active... they absorb more than their share of falls, jolts, jags and strains. The concussion of such force frequently produces spinal misalignments... which, in technical language, are referred to as subluxations.

Few parents realize the danger involved in minor spinal misalignments... a displacement of vertebrae in the neck or back produce pressure on delicate nerve fibers, resulting in malfunction somewhere in the body. Regular spinal check-ups by your family Chiropractor are just as important as other types of health examinations.

Rubottom May Be Relieved Of State Job

Choice of Mann Would Reflect Hard Cuba Policy

Washington — Diplomatic sources say Thomas C. Mann may replace Roy R. Rubottom, Jr., as assistant secretary of state in charge of inter-American affairs. Mann now is assistant secretary for economic affairs.

The state department has not confirmed the report.

Such a change might reflect a recent shift in U.S. policy toward Latin America, including a hardening attitude toward Cuba and an economic aid plan.

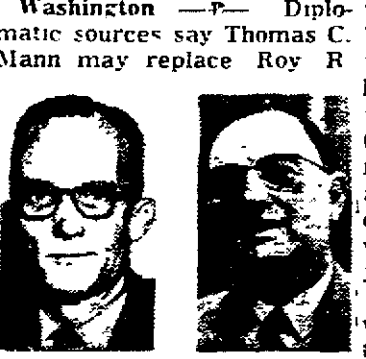

Ambassador Rumor

The diplomatic sources say that Rubottom will become ambassador to Argentina, replacing Willard Beaulac. The state department previously denied a Buenos Aires report that Rubottom would become ambassador there.

Rubottom has been assistant secretary since 1957 but has had difficulties in the last two years. He was criticized in congress last February for relaying to Gov. Edmund Brown of California a telegram from Uruguayan officials saying they feared demonstrations against President Eisenhower if Carl Chessman was executed prior to the president's goodwill trip to South America.

Brown granted a 60-day reprieve to Chessman, the "red right hand." Chessman was executed at the end of that stay after Eisenhower's trip to South America.

Rubottom was with Vice President Richard M. Nixon when Nixon was attacked by mobs at Caracas, Venezuela in 1958.

New York Issues Government Fair Practices Code

New York — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller issued an executive order today establishing a code of fair practices governing all activities of the executive branch of the state government.

All state agencies were ordered to cooperate closely with the state commission against discrimination.

The 11-point code reaffirmed the state policy of prohibiting discrimination because of race, creed, color, national origin or age in state government activities.

The code preamble noted that New York state has been a "leader in the furtherance of individual worth, justice, equality, and freedom." It added:

"It is imperative that our cooperative efforts be strengthened and sustained to further this noble cause."

The code deals with the appointment, assignment and promotion of state personnel, all agency services relating to the public, the letting of public contracts, state employment services, job training opportunities, state financial assistance and the work of licensing and regulatory agencies.

Crowd Estimated at 11 Nuclear Blasts are Scheduled

Improved Methods Of Detecting Red Shots Is Sought

Washington — The United States plans 11 small underground nuclear explosions and possibly 21 blasts with conventional explosives during the next two years.

The purpose of the explosions—first nuclear tests of any kind by this country since late 1958—is to improve methods of detecting subsurface atomic committee made public yesterday a defense department document specifying the number of shots planned. On May 7 President Eisenhower had announced there would be a new series of underground tests.

Talk Controversy

The planned American tests brought on a bitter controversy in the 3-power test ban set up shop at the Hyannisport talks in Geneva. The Russians, in a motel located about five miles from the Kennedy estate, Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, established an office in the inn's basement just off a banquet room which was converted of the planned tests.

Moscow has demanded safeguards to prevent the research program from being used as a cloak for the secret testing of new weapons.

The defense department estimated the cost of the new test program during the fiscal year 1961 at $65,840,000, including $42,990,000 for the actual nuclear and non-nuclear blasts. No cost estimates were given for the year beginning July 1, 1961.

Besides developing methods of detection of sneak underground blasts, the new program will try to develop peaceful uses of nuclear explosives—such as digging canals, diverting rivers for irrigation and opening up new natural resources.

The department report also told of a less extensive research program in detecting underground explosions which has been under way since 1948. One reason for this program has been to keep track of any kind of earthquake activity—natural or man-made—originating in Russia.

Quit $50,000 Job, Now Is Seeking Work

La Jolla, Calif. — Tom Lanphier, who quit a $50,000-a-year job so he could feel free to attack government defense policies, is looking for work again—disappointed about $30,000 poorer.

"I've had several remunerative offers from industries outside defense," he said Sunday, "but nothing as interesting as the job I gave up (vice president of General Dynamics' Convair division). I said at the time that I would never go back into defense. I still mean it."

Lanphier, 44, figures that his 5-month campaign cost him $10,000 in expenses plus loss of salary. He paid his own way on a lecture tour. He'd do it all over again, "if it would awaken the country to its military weaknesses."

He said "I'm disappointed" but added:

"I believe I have made a number of people think twice—and that was what I set out to do."

Lanphier claims the Eisenhower administration is gambling with national safety by failing to approve construction of larger numbers of missiles and planes.

He quit his job with Convair of a Greek laborer, were re-because critics charged he was only trying to sell more last month by President Eisenhower.

Famed Heart Surgeon Dies of Cerebral Stroke

New York — Dr. Aaron N. Gorelik, an internationally known heart surgeon, died Sunday of a cerebral stroke. He would have been 59 today.

Dr. Gorelik, himself a heart patient, was credited with saving many lives. Earlier this year he had operated to correct a congenital heart condition in a 4-year-old Greek boy. The operation, which closed a hole in the boy's heart, was a success.

The surgeon and the boy, Stelakios Parthenopoulos, son of a Greek laborer, were re-because critics charged he was only trying to sell more last month by President Eisenhower.

Lands Unite in Fight Against Deformities

London — Nearly 500 delegates from 21 nations today opened the first concert-ed world assault on the ancient curse of human deformities.

Amid fears that nuclear hazards may increase the problem, the First International Congress on Congenital Malformations assembled in a London hall to exchange experiences and map a campaign.

"We dare not pledge an early victory," said Prof. George W. Corner of the Rockefeller institute in a keynote address.

Progress In Field

Corner told delegates of progress of U.S. research in the field.

"But," he said, "for every experiment we perform in the detachment of our laboratories, somewhere in the world a child is born with a deformity."

Human deformity is as old as recorded history. The Egyptians of 5,000 years ago encountered cases of clubfoot, cleft palate, harelip, shortened or missing limbs, about 15 minutes later for a Today there are more than 600 classified forms of possible deformities. This progress was called by the American National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, now known as the National foundation.

Special Urgency

The foundation's president, Basil O'Connor, told delegates there is special urgency to tackle the problem on an international basis.

"We know that in America alone, these errors of nature accidentally strangle to death a million homes each year," he said. "And we have no reason to think the blow falls any less heavily on the people of other nations."

O'Connor quoted scientific authority for a statement that enough nuclear radiation exists in the atmosphere to pose the danger of increasing mutations, adding: "We cannot erase from the skies the things we have done."

Infant Accidentally Strangles to Death At Home in Georgia

Atlanta, Ga. — A baby accidentally strangled to death in his canvas swing, apparently by a head of hair, the mother of the child, Mrs. Bunt, told police.

The infant was Reginald Wayne Bunt, 34-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Bunt.

Mrs. Bunt told police she placed the boy in a swing and went down to the basement to change his clothes. She found him dead in the swing, his neck resting on a strand of hair across the swing.

A doctor said the child apparently fell asleep in the swing, eased forward against the strand of hair and strangled to death.

Kennedy Can Win Only With Changes

Johnson's Nomination Won't Carry Solid South in November

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Los Angeles—"Can he win?" These two questions are really not the same, but they are being asked continuously around here by delegates, newspapermen and people generally as the Democratic convention comes to a close. The answer to the first question is that, under certain circumstances, Sen. Johnson could win. Business could take a severe slump. Unemployment could produce discontent in many areas where big electoral votes are cast. A serious blunder by the administration in handling foreign policy could change things between now and November. As to the second question, whether Sen. Kennedy will win, a positive prediction cannot be made about anything in the future. Taking the economic and world conditions that exist at this moment, and assuming that they will still prevail in November, Sen. Kennedy seems doomed to defeat.

electorate toward a change of administrations. There is no deep-seated desire for change. The speakers at the Democratic convention dug up every adverse argument they could against the administration, but, except for some sectional grievances, came up with only vague generalities. Their statement amounted to: "We don't like the administration and want the jobs for ourselves, and we can do better." More than a mere plea is needed to convince the electorate, persuasive and explicit reasons have to be given. The vast number of persons employed and the general level of prosperity do not indicate a demand for change. 3 The party platform. Every small business man, plant, private club and private school should now note that the Democratic platform insists on a proportionate number of Catholics, Protestants and Jews—as well as whites and Negroes in private schools, private clubs and no reason why a 43-year-old man shouldn't be elected president simply because of age. Vice President Nixon is only 47. But the "experience" argument is a question of public confidence in the majority and judgment of a man who is to hold the most powerful office in the world at a critical time in American history. Vice President Nixon has had daily experience in national and international affairs in the past seven and a half years. He is familiar with the Eisenhower policies. Yet, in political appraisal, the executive branch and congressional affairs. He will be endorsed vigorously by President Eisenhower, who still is a very popular figure. 2. The basic attitude of the

The Fisher Report

The airport consulting firm of Leigh Fisher and Associates, retained by the Outagamie county board several months ago to advise it on what to do about the county airport, has made its long-awaited report to the board. Its recommendation is simple and direct: get together with Winnebago county and build a joint Fox Valley airport.

We cannot help but be pleased that this airport planning firm, which has had such long experience in this special field all over the United States, should come up with the same plan that was first proposed in these columns several months ago. The important point, however, is that their exhaustive study of the facts and figures underlying the air transportation problem of this area has proved that the plan is not only practical but highly desirable.

Key reasons for the joint airport recommendation are as follows:

1. Even if both Outagamie and Winnebago counties go ahead with plans for improving their present airports, those airports will still be "marginal facilities," while a joint port will be the right airport at the right place.
2. Each county can save in the neighborhood of a quarter-million dollars by investing in a joint airport.
3. The principal air traffic generator in this area is Neenah-Menasha. A joint airport located near Neenah-Menasha can serve the whole area and yet be located "where the business is."

4. The Fox Cities and Oshkosh together form a single air traffic market. In contrast, Green Bay (somewhat surprisingly) is a distinctly separate air traffic market.

Should the Winnebago and Outagamie supervisors fail to agree on this project, the report then calls for a new Outagamie county airport west of Appleton. The report makes it clear, however, that this is strictly an alternative and not anywhere near as desirable — from the standpoint of both counties — as a joint airport. Although we would not hesitate to urge the Outagamie county supervisors to go ahead with this alternative plan should Winnebago county decline to participate in the joint project,

The Kennedy-Johnson Ticket

Sen. Kennedy's selection of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as his running mate is being described as traditional in the sense that it balances the Democratic ticket, yet it has its unusual aspects too.

The presidential nominee obviously was influenced in his selection by the need to forestall an incipient revolt in the South whose delegates were irritated both by the strong civil rights plank included in the platform and by Sen. Johnson's defeat for the top spot. In addition the naming of Johnson balances the ticket geographically (Kennedy is from Massachusetts, Johnson from Texas), religiously (Kennedy is a Catholic, Johnson a Protestant), and what we might call hair-colorwise since Johnson has that now-famous "little bit of grey" in his hair to balance Kennedy's alleged lack of experience and undeniably youthful appearance.

Johnson's nomination is unusual, however, in that the Democrats have named for the vice presidency one of their most outstanding and best known leaders. Such a selection has not been at all common in the histories of our parties. Generally the vice presidential nominee has been either an amiable nobody who happens to have the required balancing qualifications, or at best a third or fourth ranking party leader. For example the Democratic nominees for this post in the last seven elections have been Garner, Wallace, Truman, Barkley, Sparkman and Kefauver — of them,

Music (Some of It) Hath Charms

The disk jockey, a purely American institution, is being introduced to a lot of countries this side of and behind the Iron Curtain via the music programs of the Voice of America. Those who may throw up their hands in horror about spending the taxpayer's dollar in such a frivolous manner should consider that so far the Russians don't try to jam our music programs and sometimes there are ways of winning friends other than through words. Our music may be better than our diplomacy.

Willis Conover is the American in charge of music programs on the Voice, and he has been hailed, wine and dined with enthusiasm on his trips by his fans. The last tour this spring was through Turkey, Yugoslavia and the Middle East. He was invited to radio stations, even in Titoland, asked to judge contests, speak to jazz fans, discuss music, plan festivals.

Wood Chemistry Being Developed Into Industry

From The New York Times

The nation's forests are gradually coming to be regarded as a vast storehouse of chemicals, as well as a source of products such as woodpulp, lumber and plywood.

Faced with growing supplies of uneconomic waste materials from the production of these major products, manufacturers are giving increased attention to the conversion of useless wastes into profitable products.

Unlocking the secrets of chemicals contained in trees has been a long, slow process. Much of it still remains to be done. But the time when a significant breakthrough will occur appears to be getting closer.

Sales of wood-based chemicals now amount to about $60 million a year, according to one industry source. This this would be an unfortunate development for, as Fisher pointed out, it would reverse the situation of the two counties. This would occur, he explained, because the air traffic would then shift sharply to the Outagamie county airport and Winnebago county would find itself with a questionable airport investment, which is the situation that Outagamie is in at present.

There is another important factor to be considered — that of competition with Green Bay. There is no question, Fisher said, but that a joint Outagamie-Winnebago airport would, within a relatively short time, develop more traffic than the Green Bay airport. On the other hand if the two counties continue to maintain separate airports neither of them can ever expect to pass Green Bay.

We are well aware that the Fisher recommendation will come as a shock to many people in Winnebago county. They have been very progressive in the development of their airport and have invested considerable sums in it; many of them will wonder why they should now abandon it in favor of a new one. Yet the Fisher report makes it clear that a joint airport is just as important to Winnebago county as it is to Outagamie county. In fact, Fisher said, "Had we been retained by the Winnebago county board we would have come up with the same recommendation — get together with Outagamie and build a joint airport."

The important thing at this point, we think, is that the people of Winnebago county and especially the members of the Winnebago county board approach this matter with an open mind. They should study the Fisher report carefully; undoubtedly they will want to check its findings, perhaps using separate consultants of their own. Such an approach is all Outagamie has a right to ask of them at this time. Knowing the caliber of the Winnebago board, the leadership it has shown in the air transport field in the past and the cooperative attitude it has displayed regarding such projects as the University of Wisconsin Extension Center, we are confident that it will take a fair-minded and constructive attitude in this instance.

only Sen. Barkley could be described as a party heavyweight at the time of his nomination. The Republicans similarly have picked either second raters or men of little note — Gov. Earl Warren in 1948 is the only recent exception to come to mind. Of course in some cases men who are relatively little known at the time of their selection later on have become important leaders of their parties; Harry Truman and Richard Nixon are examples of this.

We suspect that the Kennedy camp's desire to have the majority leader on the ticket, and Johnson's willingness to accept, resulted to some extent from the new stature the office of vice president has today. Ironically, this upgrading of the office has been achieved by the very man the Kennedy-Johnson ticket is out to beat — Richard M. Nixon. When President Eisenhower came into office he decided that the vice president should be one of the really top leaders in the government, and Nixon, fortunately, was a man with the ability to become just that. As a result both the Democrats and Republicans have been pushed into a situation where the caliber of the vice presidential nominee has taken on a new importance.

Sen. Johnson will, if elected, make a fine vice president. This fact may, in the long run turn out to be the most important aspect of Sen. Kennedy's decision, rather than the obvious political considerations that motivated him.

The music played on the Voice is either popular . . . "Satisfying, fairly polished . . . good class bards . . ." or jazz, which Mr. Conover emphasizes must be "listened to, like classical music . . . I try to be selective and representative . . . I concentrate on the 'greats' . . . no rock 'n' roll . . ." Mr. Conover has found great enthusiasm for jazz around the world, in fact quite a bit more than in its land of origin.

As long as the Voice of America is thought worthy of existence at all, its music is important. Any good radio man knows the importance of gathering a listening audience with something it likes and then throwing in the commercial or public interest bit. Music not only soothes; it can encourage and inspire. We don't know how many people are weaned away from communism by Mr. Conover's choice of music, but it may be the opening wedge for getting across some American ideas as well as American jazz.

What Others are Saying

Civil Rights Issue Is Crucial In Choice of 1960 Candidates

From The Columbus (Ohio) Citizen Journal

Ours is the first great government on earth ever dedicated to the proposition that the individual citizen, however humble, has rights which his government may not deny and must defend.

The founding fathers were interested primarily in protecting themselves against the tyranny of a degenerate British king. But tyranny is a constant menace in any state, whether it be the tyranny of a king, a dictator, an entrenched bureaucracy, or a selfish majority.

To protect against this tyranny the privileges and immunities of American citizens are written into the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, aptly termed the "Bill of Rights," and into further amendments, including the 14th and 15th.

It is these amendments which guard freedom of religion, free speech, free press, the right to assemble peaceably and to petition the government for redress of grievances. They protect also against arbitrary searches of homes and seizures of property, provide that a citizen can't be forced to testify against himself and guarantee trial by jury.

The 14th amendment forbids any abridgments of the privileges of U.S. citizenship. The 15th specifically protects the right to vote, forbidding it to be denied "on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude."

Through long custom, Americans take these rights for granted, tending to forget that, over a large area of the world, they are denied and held to scorn.

In the field of civil rights lies the basic difference between American democracy and Soviet communism. The rise of Russian dictatorship is history's greatest challenge to our free form of government.

Ours is a government of law, rather than the whims or prejudices of men. In the faithful observance of the law lies the positive answer to communism.

The observance is of primary importance to our own future since the tolerated violation of one law sets the precedent for defiance of any law which may be irksome, hence threatens the gradual disintegration of our system with all its protection of rights of citizens.

But, in addition to that, the newly freed nations are inspired in large measure by our Declaration, our Constitution and the words of our democratic philosophers.

They watch us anxiously to note whether we mean what we say. If we don't we are no better than the communists.

Faithful protection of civil rights is worth more to us, in the way of favorable world sentiment, than billions in foreign aid. In the final analysis it may be worth more than squadrons of missiles.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of July 21, 1860.

Mr. S. M. Booth, tried, convicted and sentenced to a fine and imprisonment by the U. S. District Court of this state over five years ago for violating the Fugitive Law of 1850, got out a habeas corpus and was discharged by the Supreme Court of Wisconsin on the grounds that the Fugitive act was unconstitutional.

The case went to the U. S. Supreme Court and in 1859, its unanimous decision was given affirming the constitutionality of the law and directing the district court to enforce the sentence. The latter has been done and Booth locked up.

An application for a habeas corpus has since been made to the Supreme Court of this state to effect Booth's discharge, which application has been denied. The Free Democrats, a fierce and unscrupulous Lincoln organ, terms Booth's last arrest the act of a mob, and it has labored for weeks to incite a mob to batter down Booth's prison walls and release him, at the same time declaring (what it has no authority for doing) that if Lincoln is elected, Old Abe will pardon him.

Just hear the Democrat: "When this mob first broke upon Mr. Booth by force, and kidnapped him, it was the legal right of the people to rescue him, and enforce the writ of the Supreme Court. And had the people risen en masse, taken Mr. Booth from prison, tarred and feathered Judge Miller, the marshal and all who had a hand in kidnapping Booth, and ducked them all in the lake it would have been an example worth more to protect the liberties of our citizens against kidnappers than a hundred writs of habeas corpus."

How it aches for a thrashing. It and its crew are too cowardly to attempt all they threaten. They might pummel small boys or steal chickens from a blind white man, but there is no fight in a raft load of such Shanghais.

High officials said that elaborate plans prepared by the national resources board — on which President Roosevelt originally based the $4,000,000,000 work relief program — had been abandoned so far as the present jobs drive was concerned.

With war between Italy and Ethiopia increasingly regarded as inevitable, Premier Benito Mussolini ordered the mobilization of another regular army division and the creation of an additional division of blackshirt militia.

The fifth annual convention of the Wisconsin Journeymen Barbers' association opened at Conway hotel that morning with an official welcome to delegates and visitors by Mayor John Goodland, Jr.

Addison Sprague, Appleton, was elected treasurer of the Progressive Youth league at the state convention at Green Bay. Outagamie county delegates were Miss Mary Stimp, Miss Pauline Noyes, Leo P. Solinger, Thomas Stimp, Appleton, Cornelius Kokke, Kimberly and Milo Singler, Shiocton.

Tongue-in-Cheek Piece From Doyle

BY ROBERT J. DOYLE

Madison — Dear Son: I've been worrying about you ever since you told me that you want to be a newspaper reporter and write about the state government. I did that myself for many years, you know. That is why I'm worried. But if you want to try for it, I'll give you the best advice I can.

Doyle

I don't know whether you

Robert J. Doyle, for many years one of the best state capital reporters, contributes a light-hearted essay on state-house journalism, as a pinch-hitter for John Wyngaard, on vacation. Doyle is now a public relations consultant.

can make it. You'll be in seventh grade next fall, and you should have started years ago to get the special background you need for the job.

Get into your school plays as soon as you can, and go out for track and football. You'll need to know a lot about acting, because some of the best and worst actors in the state always are in the legislature. You have to know which are the actors

We do not look for perfection overnight, and are inclined to suspect election-year enthusiasms which are forgotten after the voting. The voter should require sane leadership, as opposed to demagogic promises. But we must move steadily toward enforcement and acceptance of civil rights as guaranteed by the fundamental law of our land — the Constitution. In judging among the candidates for office, in the election this November, we must place great weight on understanding of, and dedication to, the cause of equal rights for citizens.

and which aren't. And you'll have to be a pretty good actor yourself at times, just to keep a straight face when anyone with an assistant tells you he wrote his own speech.

ATHLETE WANTED

Track is a must, because you will have to try to cover meetings and sessions going on in several different places in the capitol, the state office building and on the campus at the same time. And football will help you get into crowded hearing rooms.

You'd better figure on a lot of horseback riding to get in proper condition for covering committee and board meetings. Those chairs get pretty hard after the third or fourth day in a row.

Start doing as much outside reading as you can. You should be able to read three or four times faster than normal if you're going to make a dent in all the reports from government agencies. Take extemporaneous speaking, too, so you'll be able to run to a phone and dictate a terse, meaty, accurate story five minutes before deadline.

Learn juggling and tight-rope walking and keep in practice. The juggling will help you handle several stories at once. And you'll do a lot of tightrope walking while both sides are trying to convince you that the other side is totally wrong.

Plan on heavy schedules in high school and college, because you should have a working knowledge of just about everything if you are going to be any good at covering all the state departments, the legislature and the supreme court.

GRAMMING

Be sure to take accounting, banking, investments and taxation. You'll need them to understand the budget stories. I know of a case where everybody in Wisconsin — including the capitol reporters, the governor and the tax commissioner — went to bed with a $23 million deficit and got up the next morning to find the budget almost balanced.

While you are taking the usual journalism courses, be sure to sign up for some engineering, architecture, medicine, law, biology, chemistry, physics, forestry, public administration, history, political science, surveying, statistics, geography, geology, mathematics, sociology, Latin and agriculture. A course in speech correction will help you to understand some legislators when they are talking from the floor a long way from the press table.

And, of course, you need several courses in psychology and psychiatry, along with a good grounding in philosophy to keep you from going into orbit when the legislature nears adjournment.

You won't be able to operate well without a couple of years of typing.

And finally, son, be sure to take a course in salesmanship. You'll need that to get someone else to write your column for you so you can take a vacation and go to the political conventions.

He emphasized that the legion is not proposing the amount of the bonus or how tax funds should be raised to pay it. "That is up to the legislature," he said, "but the legion is getting a reputation as being opposed to a bonus by delaying action. Now we have a clear statement that we favor a bonus."

Opposition to a bonus for World war II and Korean veterans has come mainly from legionnaires who say there should be no blanket payment to all and that benefits should go only to those veterans who actually need financial aid.

The pension resolution for aged World war I veterans was introduced by Gordon W. Roseleip, Darlington, past state commander. Neither provoked debate on the floor. Resolutions which were approved:

1. Petition that the United States carry out the deportation of Harry Bridges, a union leader with communist leanings, as an "undesirable resident."

2. Ask the national American Legion to undertake an investigation of the detention of "450 known prisoners of war held by the communists from the Korean war."

3. Recommending to congress that the recruiting activities of all branches of the armed services be consolidated and that the selective service system organize a manpower procurement and recruiting plan for all the services.

4. Urge that congress designate Feb. 12 to 22 as Americanism days to be observed in rededication to Americanism and a study of the serious nature of the communist threat.

Three resolutions disapproved would have:

1. Opened up legion membership to all who have served in the armed forces prior to Jan. 31, 1955. Membership is now restricted to those who served in World war I, World war II and in Korea and between the first two wars.

2. Urged the veterans administration to make the services of chiropractors available to qualified veterans on an out-patient basis.

During business sessions Saturday the national convention also heard an address by Brig. Gen. Kenneth M. Gibson, commander of the Chicago air defense sector, Truxax Field, Madison.

Willie Alexander, 17, Racine, governor of Badger Boys State at Ripon college, also spoke Saturday morning and Howard Gutgesell, 14, Wausau, Sunday morning delivered the speech that won home of his daughter. Mrs. Louis Verhaen and family in Chicago.

Kennedy Runs Campaign On Oiled Political Track

Senator Breaks Traditions To Mold Public Opinion Early

BY BELMAN MORIN

Associated Press Special Correspondent

Sen. John F. Kennedy looks like the casual man, relaxed, leisurely the supreme practitioner of the cool sell.

When he is running hardest, he seems to be strolling. Making a speech, he is more thoughtful than fervent. He seldom shows his feelings. They lie behind the boyish grin. Neither personal attacks, campaign setbacks for political disappointments seem to crack his marble calm.

This is the surface image of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the Democratic candidate for president, but it reflects very little of the real Kennedy. Actually, the senator is a man in a hurry.

Nearly four years ago he fore he was 40 he began preparing for the Democratic nomination. He raced around the country like a whirlwind, making speeches, meeting politicians, exposing himself to potential delegates and voters, lavishing energy on political chores.

First: A Series

Fighter Gambles

He is a fighter, a driver, and a shrewd field general.

Kennedy announced his candidacy early, breaking with tradition. Then he mapped a hard schedule, entering seven presidential primary elections. Some were calculated risks and some outright gambles — particularly Wisconsin and West Virginia. Again flouting tradition, Kennedy said on the eve of the Wisconsin primary, "This is it. If I lose, I'm out. He won that election and all the others."

He is thorough, meticulous, a man of intense concentration.

Kennedy briefs himself carefully on a wide range of subjects. Campaigning, he talked about foreign affairs, rockets, labor-and-management problems, unemployment insurance, depressed areas and farm problems. One of his most effective speeches was the

was a product of his smooth-working team of professionals. They overlooked few bets in the tedious, complicated, many-sided labyrinth of politics. Among the principals are Theodore C. Sorenson, a Nebraska Protestant, head of the "brain trust"; Pierre Salinger, former California newspaperman, press chief; Steven Smith, the senator's brother-in-law, the appointments expert; Lawrence O'Brien, veteran Boston politician, the advance man when Kennedy came into a state and Louis Harris, professional pollster.

challenge to America. In it, he used a statistic about the undernourished. I asked him where he got it. Kennedy turned to an aide, "What's the authority for that figure?" The aid said he would have to look it up. "Yes, get it," Kennedy said. "If I'm going to use the figure, I want to be sure it's right."

He set up a beautifully-engineered organization. In part, the Kennedy blitz no mistakes. "We made ably Harvard yard accent. On

Family Affair

In addition, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, and John Bailey, Connecticut Democratic chairman, were out working for Kennedy before he announced he was a philosopher, a Renaissance writer, poet and statesman.

They appear to have made He does this in an unmistakable Harvard yard accent. On some," an aide grins, "but they didn't show."

The whole Kennedy family pitched in.

Kennedy's wife, Jacqueline, his mother, Rose, three sisters, Patricia, Jean and Eunice, and his two brothers, Robert and Ted, all went out into the hustings to help. They met the ladies, made speeches, gave teas, appeared on television. Bobby, the campaign manager, is a burly, loose-headed dynamo. Unlike his brother, who seems to run cool, Bobby "ran scared" through the whole campaign.

Kennedy presented an attractive figure.

Harvard Man

The voters saw a slim, well-tailored man with level blue eyes and a shock of reddish-brown hair. His boyish grin and ambling manner reminded them of actor Jimmy Stewart.

Kennedy graduated with Ribicoff of Connecticut, and honors from Harvard and he John Bailey, Connecticut Democratic chairman, were out working for Kennedy before he announced he was a philosopher, a Renaissance writer, poet and statesman.

Policemen of The Fox Cities

(This is another in a series of stories on Fox Cities men and women.)

Sgt. Norbert J. Marx, 46, of 22 Garden court, joined the Appleton force Dec. 1, 1938, and is a detective. He was promoted to detective in 1948, sergeant in 1958. He is married and has a son.

Marx attended Appleton High School. Norbert Marx and formerly worked for Kimberly-Clark corporation. He served two years in the army in the European theater. His hobby is re-finishing furniture. Marx was president of the Appleton Policemen's Protective association for five years and is a director of the association. He was a member of the state champion Appleton pistol team in 1938.

or off the public platform, he has taste and style.

He talks with conviction, generally in machine gun staccato, but he never orates in the old Fourth of July manner. He has a quick, sharp sense of humor — but uses it sparingly to avoid appearing as a wisecracker.

He doesn't pretend to have been born in a log cabin. He campaigned by private plane and spent money where it was needed. Nor did he duck questions about Roman Catholic religion or his age, 43.

He charmed audiences, particularly younger people and women. "We just love you, Jack," said a University of New Hampshire coed. "I'm a Republican, senator," said an elderly California woman, "but you're making a Democrat out of me."

Tomorrow — The Kennedy record.

LA Gives Insight on Civil Rights Issues

Heterogeneous Population Illustrates American Mobility, Cultural Amalgamation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Los Angeles — A week in this heterogeneous metropolis has given many a midwestern politician a new perspective on civil rights issues.

To the Wisconsin trained eye, a tour of downtown Los Angeles tells more about the meaning of the civil rights, the discussions of the politicians, Democratic and Republican, than a score of platitudinous speeches or a thousand words of uplatform rhetoric.

Here are people of more diverse origins, persuasions, and color than perhaps any other major population center of America. Academic Issue In all Wisconsin there are perhaps 50,000 Negroes. The issue of Negro rights in the South, therefore, is an academic and idealist one to the practicing Wisconsin politician. But there are at least 100,000 Negroes in the city alone, and additional thousands of Orientals of a dozen extractions, Puerto Ricans, Mexican Indians and others.

Most Wisconsin visitors were astonished at the diversity of the population. Even those few who had come here as tourists in earlier years noted startling changes.

There is perhaps no more striking example of the mobility of population in the country today than this vital but easy-going motley of peoples, customs and tastes. And there is no better laboratory, for the provincial eye, for the demonstration of the cultural amalgamation that cannot be seen in Madison or Pesaukee or Waupaca.

deteriorating situation. Gen. Henry T. Alexander, British commander of Ghana's army and head of its contribution to the U.N. force, said the situation in the infant African republic had "worsened all over."

Alexander flew from Leopoldville to picturesque Stanleyville, 775 miles north of the capital yesterday to plant the U.N. flag and confer with Premier Lumumba and President Kasavubu.

2 Clashes Reported

The Belgian radio reported two clashes between Congolese and Belgian troops. A broadcast said a Belgian army plane and a helicopter on a mission to rescue Belgian civilians were shot down by Congolese in the lower Congo yesterday.

Quoting reports from the Congo, the broadcast asserted African soldiers shot the helicopter pilot, a Belgian administrator and another Belgian pilot at a camp at Thysville, 75 miles west of Leopoldville. It was not clear whether the latter was the pilot of the downed army plane.

The radio said Belgian paratroopers had a violent clash with Congolese soldiers in Banningville, 150 miles north-east of Leopoldville yesterday.

The radio reported that 20 paratroopers landed in a CD3 in Banningville to rescue Europeans who reported by radio that the Congolese were molesting them.

The broadcast said the paratroopers had successfully started evacuating the whites but did not report any casualties.

Six hundred Ethiopian soldiers who arrived in Leopoldville to join the growing U.N. military force will fly today to Stanleyville, where a general agitation seems to have spread, according to the Belgian radio. It reported numerous calls for rescue from isolated white communities.

Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu flew to Stanleyville two days ago in an effort to quell the spreading unrest. With Belgian troops in control of Leopoldville there was speculation they would set up a new capital in Stanleyville.

Cherry Growers Ask Help of State Agency To Recruit Workers

Madison — P— Wisconsin cherry growers have asked the Wisconsin State Employment service to help recruit cherry pickers for the harvest which is expected to start in the Sturgeon Bay area next Monday.

Frank Usterger, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Red Cherry Growers, association said Friday that some of the seasonal workers had moved out of the area because the harvest is late.

Usterger said that the crop is a little smaller than average this year. It will take about three weeks to harvest, he said.

Bunche's Report

Ethiopian troops arrived by Ethiopian airline planes.

Plans reportedly were being made to send Moroccan troops by train southwest to Matadi, the Congo's chief port, which is held by mutinous troops of the Congo army. Sketchy reports from Matadi indicated all whites had abandoned the city and economic activity there had come to a complete halt.

U. N. Under Sec. Raimo J. Bunche telephoned Sec. Dag Hammarskjold in New York and informed him of the critical turn of events caused by the Congo's threat to call in Soviet troops.

Bunche, Von Horn and other U. N. officials reviewed the spot on the ticket, with Sens. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Henry Jackson of Washington his second choices.

Johnson's selection as Kennedy's running mate last Thursday riled several members of the state delegation, but his nomination by acclamation prevented them from casting protest votes. Nelson in the past has criticized Johnson's stands on civil rights and regulation of the oil industry.

Supports Platform

However, Nelson said Johnson's pledge to back the platform would seem to indicate the Texan would change his position on these points. The platform contains a strong civil rights plank.

"It's possible," he said, "that Johnson's past positions on oil and civil rights were a reflection of the views of his constituency."

He called Kennedy a "forceful and independent" candidate who "won't be dictated to by anybody, whether it's the vice president or anyone else."

"John Nance Garner didn't make a conservative out of Roosevelt and Johnson won't make one out of Kennedy," he said.

The governor predicted Democratic victories this fall, both in Wisconsin where he will head the ticket, and for the presidency.

Nelson said Kennedy told him he plans to campaign in Wisconsin.

New Head Picked To Lead Catholic Mission Group

Vatican City — Pope John XXIII today formally named Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian prefect of the Vatican's congregation for the propagation of the faith.

Cardinal Agagianian succeeds Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi, who died a week ago after heading the congregation for 27 years. The congregation directs the Roman Catholic church's mission activities throughout the world.

For the last two years Cardinal Agagianian had been pro-prefect of the congregation, assisting Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi, who had been in failing health for years.

Cardinal Agagianian, who will be 65 on Sept. 18, was born in what is now Soviet Georgia. He is considered one of the Roman Catholic church's foremost experts on Russia and communism.

Life-Saving Heart Massage Done Without Opening Chest

Cardiac massage — often a life-saving measure — can now be performed without opening the chest.

A closed-chest technique for reviving a heart that has stopped was described by W. B. Kouwenhoven, doctor of engineering, James R. Jude, M.D., and G. Guy Knickerbocker, M.S.E., of Johns Hopkins university medical school, Baltimore, in the Journal of the American Medical association.

When the heart stops, circulation must be restored promptly or loss of oxygen can do irreparable damage to the brain or nervous system.

During the last 10 months, the closed-chest method has been used on 20 patients, ranging from two months to 80 years of age, they reported. All 20 patients were resuscitated and 14 of them are alive without central nervous system damage, the researchers said.

The method consists of applying pressure with one hand on top of the other vertically downward on the patient's breast bone about 60 times per minute. At the end of each pressure stroke, the hands are lifted slightly to permit full expansion of the chest.

The pressure on the breast bone compresses the heart between it and the spine, forcing out blood while relaxation of pressure allows the heart to fill, the researchers explained.

The Camera Catches Possible First Lady....

Monday, July 18, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent 81

Jacqueline Bouvier, now Mrs. John F. Kennedy, sat her horse like a veteran as she and her mother, Mrs. John V. Bouvier, (now Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss) won third prize in the family class at an Easthampton, Long Island, N. Y., horse show.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the Democratic presidential nominee and the former Jacqueline Bouvier, posed with her father, John V. Bouvier, III, at Easthampton, Long Island, in July, 1947, a few days before her 18th birthday. Jacqueline will not be an active worker for her husband in the coming campaign. She is expecting her second child in late November or early December.

Beaming Senator John F. Kennedy and his bride, the former Jacqueline Bouvier, are shown as they left Newport, R. I., church on Sept. 12, 1953, after Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston officiated at their wedding. Mrs. Kennedy became known as the "Jackie" of the "Jack and Jackie" team during the pre-convention campaigning.

Her Job Was a Snap. Jacqueline Bouvier learned to use a news photographer's camera well enough to become an inquiring photographer for the Washington (D. C.) Times-Herald shortly before she met Sen. John F. Kennedy at a Washington party in 1953. She became Kennedy's bride the same year.

Senator Kennedy's running mate on the Democratic ticket, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, and his family are all smiles as they appeared together at a caucus of their home state of Texas in Los Angeles Thursday. From left they are, "Lady Bird" (Mrs. Johnson), vice-presidential candidate Sen. Johnson, and daughters Linda, 16 and Lucy, 14.

Your Problems Career Girl Wants Friends to Stop Trying to Marry Her Off

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a career girl 31 years of age—and yes, I look it. (I'm the first woman who has ever written to you and made that statement.)

I have a stimulating job. My life is full. I'm content. As for men—I can take them or Ann Landers leave them alone. This is a ducky arrangement because there are times when I don't want to be bothered with the hungry male ego which begs constantly to be pampered.

This brings me to the main reason for writing. My married friends are everlastingly trying to find me a husband. They refuse to believe that not every woman wants one. Perhaps there's something missing in my makeup but I have no desire to be a wife, mother, mother-in-law or grandmother.

I do exactly as I please have the entire bed to myself and I don't have to put up with a guy who wants his shorts ironed just so. Please print this letter, as a public service to other gals who are—Blessedly Single.

Dear Single: If you haven't tried it—don't knock it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married 10 years. The fourth specialist just told letter to a newspaper. This my wife that we will probably woman bawled in print before have children. He suggested she worked for years to gested adoption. My wife is put her husband through col-against adoption for the following reasons:

She claims that some babies who appear normal at birth turn out to have defective vision, damaged brains, and inherited weaknesses. She expressed it this way, "It's bad enough when your own turn out to be defective but it's a double tragedy when you go out and look for trouble."

I hate to think of a life without children. Perhaps if some of our readers who have adopted children would give her the benefit of their experience, it would help. And may I have your opinion, Ann?—Still Hoping to Celebrate Dad's Day.

Dear Hoping: A few years ago a similar letter appeared in this space—only it was a wife who wrote about her husband's fear of adoption. I invited adoptive parents to express themselves. Never have I had such heart-warming response. I hope the readers will respond again.

Millions of homes have been transformed from lonely, dreary dwellings to palaces of fulfillment and happiness. Adopted children produced this magic. Repeatedly I've heard adoptive parents say, "We should not have waited so long. Before, we only existed. Now, we are living."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The beef from "Outgrown Wife" prompts this. My first The fourth specialist just told letter to a newspaper. This my wife that we will probably woman bawled in print before have children. He suggested she worked for years to gested adoption. My wife is put her husband through col-

TIPEWRITTEN LETTERS

Although I'm a product of the "Old School," I am apt to go along with some of the modern ways, providing they seem to be in good taste. More and more of my childhood friends are typing their letters instead of doing them by hand. And I miss Davis find myself doing the same. It's all right "among us gals," for there is no one to criticize. But are others also doing it more and more?

Louise Davis Answers:

Yes indeed they are and if you should make new friends you'd be pretty safe in assuming that they would be delighted to get typewritten letters from you. Racine Miss Wins State Beauty Title

Kenosha—Karen Marie stine, 19, Neenah, was third. Fahnenbach of Racine, a 21-year-old beauty contest winner, Miss Appleton. She with brown hair, is the new Miss Wisconsin of 1960. She Mrs. Ralph D. Van Alstine, will represent the state in the route 1, Neenah.

The prizes for Miss Fahnenbach include a $1,000 scholarship, an all-expense trip to Atlantic City, a coveted title Saturday night over 15 other contestants. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fahnenbach of Racine.

Miss Fahnenbach is 5-foot 5 1/2 inches tall and weighs 114 pounds. Her specialty for the talent competition division of the contest was a ballet performance. Her hobby is music, both classical and popular.

Thousands of persons lined Kenosha's main street for the parade that came just prior to the final judging.

Waste Now Makes for Want Later

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you try to block every punch that's thrown your way you'll wear yourself out. And then a mere love-tap may knock you right out. The same thing can happen in a bridge hand.

West opened the deuce of spades, an obvious singleton, and East won with the jack. East returned the king of spades to put his partner in over-ruffing position.

Now this was a punch that declarer couldn't really block. It was foolish of him to waste his strength on it, but there is no law against foolishness. South ruffed with the ace of trumps and sneered at West as though to say "Try to over-ruff if you can."

West smiled grimly and hoped that South's blustery play would cost him dear. And so it did.

Bad Trump Break

Declarer led on the king and queen of trumps, discovering the bad trump break. Then he led the 10 of trumps to force out West's jack.

West promptly led a club to East's ace, and East returned a spade to put his partner once more in over-ruffing position.

Now nothing could save declarer. If South ruffed low, West would over-ruff with the seven; and if South ruffed with the nine, West's seven would become the master trump.

The loss of two trump tricks defeated the contract, but South had only himself to thank for this result. He could have saved himself by ruffing at the second trick with the 10 of hearts instead of the ace.

If West discarded (his best play), South would lead out three top trumps and then a low trump to the jack. If West over-ruffed at the second trick, he could still do nothing better than lead a club to the ace and get another spade return. But South could then ruff with the nine and draw trumps with the ace, king and queen.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S-7, H-A K Q 10 9 6 5, D-A K Q and C-K Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts if you have strong two-hands; bid two clubs if you use "weak two-bids." Your intention is to get to game even if your partner has a worthless hand.

Pine in a natural finish is chosen for the best of rea- sons — because it's so easy really a beautiful color, espe- to like its looks, and because cially when it has had a it fits all kinds of needs so chance to mellow as it must have in your den. Don't think of it as a wood finish, but as a color and try other colors with it. A color scheme based on a slightly grayed yellow- orange, for example, would change the room greatly be- cause the dark contrasts you have now would be avoided. Any compatible blue that isn't too dark would be quite dif- ferent, or crisp black and cream with red-orange ac- cent. A type of pattern change will help, too. Make it a wide-spaced large pat- tern with plenty of plain background or a small all- over pattern, depending on whether you wish to create a contemporary or an informal traditional effect. Green wouldn't seem the same if it were olive.

Mrs. A. W. G. "What do you do about a chair that never has been comfortable?" Of course this is the one that never will wear out because nobody sits in it. Would covering the inside of the back and the seat with foam rubber and making a slipcover to conceal this help enough to be worth the trou- ble?

A softer surface is proba- bly not all the chair needs. A chair is usually uncomfort- able because the pitch of the back in relation to the seat is wrong for the seated figure— remember that all — wood chairs aren't soft, but can be very comfortable. You might try pillows of various sizes at the back of the seat to see what changes they can make.

Margaret Chooses New Styles

BY EDDY GILMORE

London — Since her marriage to fashion-conscious Anthony Armstrong — Jones — Princess Margaret has radically changed her hat styles. She's settled on a variation of the toque, or souflee, made famous by her grandmother, the late Queen Mary.

Did her husband talk her into the lid switch? Only the newlyweds know the answer to that.

Wears Toques

Gone are the beloved head pieces of yesterday — the elaborate cartwheel that made the petite princess look top heavy, the berets, turbans, picture hats and hats with brims. Since her wedding on May 6, Margaret has worn the toque on every public occasion.

She sailed off on her Caribbean honeymoon in a toque of sunshine yellow spun net. She returned to London on June 18 in a white toque. On June 24, when opening a school, she donned a toque. On July 12, on an official visit to Birmingham, it was a toque. Friday, at her first Buckingham palace garden party as a married woman, it was a toque again.

Her milliner, Simone Mirman, says the princess has another style from her trou- seau that she has yet to wear. It's called the ballerina ban- deau.

Light Material

Margaret's toques differ from her grandmother's in that they're made of very light spun net. Queen Mary's were of heavy silk and satin. And just as the princess has clung to the toque in hats, she's worn a duster coat on every public occasion. Some- times it's been the same coat, or passed on to friends. In brilliant cyclamen pink.

Margaret has changed her shoe style, too. Instead of the open-toed model that she us- ed to wear — and that her sis- ter Queen Elizabeth I still out- wears — Margaret's new style is close-toed. And — unless she's wearing the same pair on every occasion, she's got high heels and a tiny bow.

Mrs. Joseph Paul will be the hostess chairman; Mrs. Russell Weller and Mrs. Arthur Fellenz, clerks; Mrs. E. A. Rosenberg, registering guests; Mrs. August Bleck and Mrs. Carl Smith, registration of entries, and Mrs. Herbert Lichtenberg, prizes.

Fixings for Birthdays

You'll find it simpler to use several simple shapes com- bined to form a more compli- cated motif, than to use a complex design cut in one piece. For instance, cut a simple white doll, then add colored skirt, hair bow, etc. Then, carefully following di- rections on the package ap- ply design with iron to one rectangle.

Next, prepare the fringe. You can buy fringe by the yard or make your own. Be sure this too is washable. Pin fringe in place on each end of mat, as shown. Take the two rectangles, right sides together, and stitch all around work? Well, all youngsters like to cut out paper dolls, so keep them busy doing that— helping mommy and at the same time, having great fun have turned mat to right side, slip stitch the opening closed, colored cotton place mats, press, and your mat is fin- ished!

Take advantage of the party mood and use lots of color. Make your mat in bright green, for instance, with white fringe, white dolls dressed in different colored dresses and hair bows. Your table will look gay even before the rest of the trimmings are added.

Parched Skin

"Dry skin" is a general term used to describe a multitude of problems — wrinkles, flakiness, crepiness, dullness, and like essentials. The combination acts as a natural supplement for a dwindling supply of oil in the skin. Furthermore, it has the property of being able to hold large quantities of moisture on the skin's surface. Thus, by lubricating and moisturizing, it protects the skin two ways against the drying process.

Of course, this or any other formula is only as good as its user. You must be faithful about applications. In making them, you must use feathery upward and outward strokes. You must, that is, for the best results!

ness. And most women fall prey to one or more of those conditions at some time.

As popularly believed, dry skin is not the plague of the mature woman alone. Dry skin also attacks the young complexion. For your copy skin, when it is overexposed to sun, harsh weather, or hard water.

Dave Garroway Keeps Up With World News

BY DAVE GARROWAY
Written For Associated Press
As host of the television show "Today," which has achieved some renown as a communications program, I'm probably more aware of news happenings than the average man in the street.

However, even if I were a private citizen in some area of work outside the communications field, I still would be interested, concerned, and hold opinions regarding the state of the world. Just as it's my job as a communicator to keep up with happenings, it's as much my job as a citizen to stay informed.

I think one of the great problems facing this country today is the complacency of some of our citizens. Too often the response to a serious question concerning current events is, "I have my own problems. I can't be interested in what's happening in Geneva or Russia."

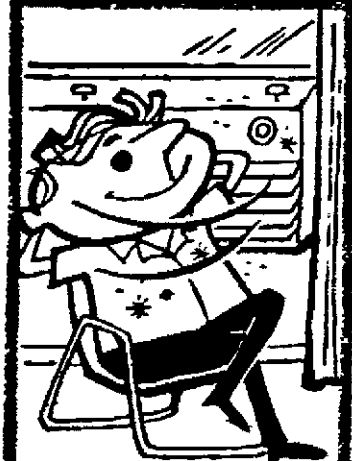

That the foregoing sentiment is more widespread than I had believed was brought home to me in a dramatic and shocking manner recently. At the time President Eisenhower's trip to Japan had been canceled because of the Tokyo riots, we took our "Today" cameras into the streets to discover what some of our citizens thought of this blow to American prestige and personal affront to our president. The majority of people interviewed were barely concerned. There were personal regrets for the president's feelings, and some people said that it was an unfortunate incident, but hardly anyone we spoke to had a strong opinion regarding it.

A disinterested public opinion often means a lax government, regardless of which administration is in power. What each of us can do is to take a more active interest in what is happening, express our thoughts without fear, and let our elected officials know how we feel. Of course before we take an interest we must have an interest.

Our greatest danger is not that the Russians are doing too much, but that we are doing too little.

Must Extend Opportunities, Executive Says

Hold Present Scouts, Organize New Units Method of Growth

"The major job facing the Valley Boy Scout council in the year ahead lies in the extension of opportunity for boys to be scouts," F. Dwight Donelson, valley council scout executive, told the council board in an outline of future problems and goals.

Donelson said expanding the scouting program is a 2-part job.

"One, we must hold our scouts, cubs and explorers longer. This means making sure that boys get the program promised to them in our handbooks. The record indicates we could do a better job in this regard.

"The second thing we must do is recruit boys in greater numbers. We cannot escape the fact that there are more boys.

More Units
"However, I seriously question, particularly in the city and east districts, whether very great numbers of additional boys can be recruited without the organization of new units," the executive explained.

Donelson said an expanded scout program is tied directly to the problem of finance. He said increased efforts will be made to encourage and support United Community Chest and fund programs, and to encourage a trust fund program.

He also stressed the importance of volunteer training to provide scout leaders and scoutmasters and train individuals for posts as district and council leaders.

Committees Cited
"How well and how completely the objectives of the Valley council can be achieved will depend to a great extent upon our ability to completely organize the various operating committees, whose job it is to make effective in the districts the council programs," the scout executive pointed out. "We must have sufficient manpower at the district level to implement the plans and programs with constructive action."

"We must be certain that our council and district structure is on the most productive basis possible. We must fill our volunteer vacancies, get the right men for chairmen, train them, help them with their work and get the committee membership needed to do the big job of helping our units.

Families from throughout the Green Bay diocese have been invited to the program, which includes the dedication, on the challenges facing rural and outdoor mass at 10:30 a.m., blessing of the fruits of the earth, and the outdoor shrine, the early fall harvest and picnic lunch, to be provided by each family.

The Rev. Edward W. O'Rourke, executive director and a building of native field of the National Catholic Rural Conference, will speak.

Actress From Milwaukee in 'Pollyanna' Film

Movie star Nancy Olson from Milwaukee and a little actress from London, Hayley Mills, are two of the stars in the Disney Technicolor film, "Pollyanna," which opens Wednesday at the Appleton theater.

Miss Olson attended grade and high school in Milwaukee where she was born, and went to the University of Wisconsin for a year before transferring to UCLA when her family moved to California. Divorced, she presently lives with her two daughters in New York City.

Miss Mills, daughter of famed English actor John Mills, won the Berlin film festival award in 1959 for her acting debut in an English film. In "Pollyanna," her second movie, the 14-year-old girl portrays the title role of the orphaned youngster who wins the hearts of all, even her crusty aunt Polly, by playing her "glad game."

Other stars appearing in the film are Jane Wyman as Aunt Polly, Richard Egan, Karl Malden, Adolphe Menjou, Donald Crisp, Agnes Moorehead and Kevin Corcoran.

Dedication of Catholic Shrine Near Antigo Set

A new shrine honoring Our Lady of Fatima will be dedicated on the grounds of St. Wenceslaus church of Neva, a few miles north of Antigo, Aug. 14.

Families from throughout the Green Bay diocese have been invited to the program, which includes the dedication, on the challenges facing rural and outdoor mass at 10:30 a.m., blessing of the fruits of the earth, and the outdoor shrine, the early fall harvest and picnic lunch, to be provided by each family.

The Rev. Edward W. O'Rourke, executive director and a building of native field of the National Catholic Rural Conference, will speak.

Ham Main Course in Theater-Restaurant

Menu of Play Productions, Good Food Satisfies Stomach, Mind

BY ANGELO NATALE
New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—Spaghetti and Sean O'Casey. T-Bones and Tennessee Williams.

This is the menu at a New Haven theater-restaurant best described as "Off Off-Broadway."

For aspiring young actors, "Studio 60" provides two basic necessities—a regular audience and regular meals.

The productions are off-beat, often experimental. The audiences usually leave with their minds and stomachs satisfied.

Many Types
The players include a few young professionals, some Yale graduate drama students, a teacher, dancer, musician and professional photographer. They share a stage built in the restaurant's main dining room.

They share a common dream—to get off "Off Off-Broadway" to "Off-Broadway" at least.

Helen Yarof, 24, heads the acting venture which began last January and will resume in the fall after a summer layoff.

"We've got to do something until we get a foot in the theatrical world," Helen says. "This gives us training and some spending money until the right break comes along."

"Studio 60" is a far cry from the Gay White Way, but Helen is determined to maintain Broadway standards among the players.

From All Over
Some of them have come from the Off-Broadway world they want to return to. Some come from as far away as community theaters in Houston, Tex.

The cast rehearses for five nights a week, then performs for an eating audience on Fridays and Saturdays.

The waiters in the restaurant are as well up on the play's lines as the performers. They wait for opportune moments to take customer orders and carry trays to tables.

The actors earn little money for their "Studio 60" performances. But they are dedicated performers who, Helen says, "throw themselves into their parts as if they were already on Broadway and this was the opening night."

Since the venture started, the actors have presented works by Chekhov, Noel Coward and Jean Paul Sartre—in addition to O'Casey and Williams.

New Ideas
Along more experimental lines, the group has performed a monologue adaptation of "Zen and the Art of Tennis"—from a magazine article—and has given New Haven its first glimpse of a Japanese "noh" play, a study of morality in line with Oriental viewpoints.

The young hopefuls, competing against four-course dinners, find their efforts all worth while.

"Being exposed before an audience is their life blood," says stage manager David Brewer.

"The musician can pick up his instrument and play, and therein practice his art," he adds. "For actors, who work a few days out of each year, audiences are hard to come by. And one needs an audience to grow in experience and confidence."

PET DOCTOR By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Is it true that a cat's whiskers should never be cut, and if so, why?

A. I can't imagine anyone feeling the need or desire to deprive a cat of his whiskers. These sensitive hairs serve as the eyes ward off danger, and as a result eye injury is less definite purpose. Those above common in cats than in other pets. The length of the lower whiskers are in proportion to the girth of the body, and they too serve a purpose. When quick judgment is necessary, the tips of the sensitive whiskers tell the cat immediately if his body will pass through a hole in the fence, for instance.

THE LAST VOYAGE

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Sokolsky

teristic Harvard man, in his cultural attitudes and his 20th century liberalism, Richard Nixon is a graduate of Whittier college in California with a law degree from Duke university. Kennedy graduated cum laude.

Nixon comes from a family which was never well-to-do. His father was a grocer and Richard had to work his way through college. Kennedy's family was rich. His father, Joseph P. Kennedy, made a fortune in which real estate and other enterprises. Joe Kennedy was American ambassador to the Court of St. James's, so that the numerous Kennedy children have had the advantage of propinquity to British culture. Each of the Kennedy children is worth at least a million dollars, the father having so provided. They are a close clan, deeply attached to one another. Even the in-laws are part of the clan. Nixon has no such family.

John Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. His family has always been attached to the church; the senator, however, is regarded as a liberal Catholic with a penchant to question clericalism. Richard Nixon is a Quaker, the most liberal of Christians sects. Both men are specialists in foreign relations. Both are widely travelled and met face to face the leading figures in the current world.

Both are admirably married. Pat Nixon is a lovable woman, gracious as a hostess, utterly Californian in her attitude. Jacqueline Kennedy is more sophisticated, somewhat European in her outlook, is comfortable in French and other European languages. Pat Nixon has long been active in politics and understands the role of a wife of an American public official — a difficult and lonely role.

Jacqueline Kennedy is somewhat newer to this picture, although the past few years have been very tough of the stage properties of each one's particular drama and the public does not always recognize what a difficult role they have to play. Nixon might be termed conservative; Kennedy a liberal. But neither defines him- or herself in terms so that a philosophy of conservatism or liberalism can be fixed for either. Kennedy will be forced, as he moves along, to free himself from ADA extremism; Nixon will be forced to free himself from Eisenhower obscurantism. Perhaps by October it will be easier to say what these two 20th century personalities really mean.

Did you know that Leonardo both hemispheres of the brain and pencil sharpeners are designed so that they can operate independently without interference. Unreconstructable lefties, their hand? Is it true that "lefties" are less skilled or successful than right-handed people? Should left-handed children be forced to use their right hands?

Writers Ruth and Edward Brecher set out to probe the question of "handedness" in a recent issue of Parents magazine they report that the problem is both more fascinating and more complex than most people suppose.

The world, they found, is not divided into "lefties" or "righties." Parents and their children may be either, neither or both. Actually, there is a wide variety of handedness patterns, and the reasons certain people follow certain patterns are interesting.

Why is one person left-handed and the other right-handed? Science doesn't yet have all the answers, but neurologists offer this partial explanation: The right half of one's body is controlled by the left half (or hemisphere) of his brain, and vice versa. Usually, there is one "dominant" hemisphere which controls the more skilled hand.

For convenience the Brechers group handedness patterns into five types:

Ambidextrous and ambisistrous. These are two minority groups. The relatively few gifted ambidextrous (right-handed skill in both hands) individuals like Leonardo da Vinci seem to have developed wrist watches, can openers hand they use best. Manufact-ers are designing new tools, appliances and sporting goods for the booming left-handed market.

A generation ago it was estimated that 2 to 6 per cent of children wrote with their left hands. A recent survey of 1,000 American schools in four states has revealed that 11 per cent of children are left-handed.

Being Remedied "Fortunately, the traditional plight of the lefty is rapidly being remedied. More and more parents and teachers are aware of the risks of exerting external pressure on resistant lefties, are concentrating on things their own way." Such helping these children develop their fullest skill with the

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles". It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

This year the Valley council of the Boy Scouts of America has made 18 reservations at Philmont Scout ranch and it feels sure that they will be filled by the time the expedi- tion starts Aug. 10. The ex- plorer scouts will be accom- panied by an adult scout lead- er from the council. In August the fortunate 15 will board a train bound for Cimarron, N. M., deep in the southwest. They will sightsee in Chicago and Denver, stop overnight at Fort Carson and sojourn to Pike's Peak. But the trips to and from Phil- mont, no matter how glamor- ous, will inevitably be only a sidelight. After arrival and a quick medical check and visits to the quartermaster to draw tentage and trail gear, they will board a bus for the short haul to whichever base camp is chosen for their sugar and a third of a cup of sugar. Trail travel will be both on horseback and on foot. All cowboy swagger.

There are 81 miles of main trail to be covered, and prob- ably a good part of the hun- dred miles of side trails. Live Off Land The scouts will live off the land, making fires with flint and steel, selecting and cook- ing edible plants, snaring rab- bits and squirrels and impro- vising their own shelters. The only supplies and equipment that may be carried are an ax, a pocket knife, a half cup of sugar and a third of a cup of sugar. Trail travel will be both on horseback and on foot. They will encounter natural beauty—the soaring Tooth of Time, the blue water at Cimarroncito, the sweep of the plain from Urraca Mesa. New Sights Every hour they will see new species of trees, flowers and animals. Philmont main- tains a herd of prong-horned antelope sharing a pasture with 50 buffalo. A Philmont census indicates that there are 3,000 mule deer, 177 species of birds and a long list of lesser mammals. There is a legend at the camp that the boys who live the 12-day experience there become men. This may be true. Certainly they walk with a man-like, bow-legged gait.

Kennedy to Get Secret Information

Newport, R. I. —An obstacle to President Eisenhower supplying Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, with top secret national security information appeared today to have been cleared in a hurry.

Through a spokesman, Eisenhower made it plain late yesterday that he was willing to make such confidential data available during the campaign to Kennedy and his running mate Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, on this condition:

They—as well as the leaders of the Republican ticket—had to accept it personally and not through go-betweens. Kennedy had indicated he planned to have representatives accept it on his behalf.

A few hours after the president's terms were outlined to Kennedy, the Massachusetts senator's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, read a statement to newsmen at Hyannisport, Mass., Kennedy's summer home.

Asked whether it meant Kennedy and Johnson were accepting the Eisenhower condition, Salinger replied: "I would say yes."

Kennedy previously had announced plans to have Adlai Stevenson and Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.) receive the confidential security information on his behalf.

Kuehn Charges Democrats With 'Selling Spending'

By The Associated Press

Philip G. Kuehn of Milwaukee, Republican candidate for governor, said Sunday the aim of the Democrats this year seems to be a program of "tax, spend and elect in a glamorous new package."

Kuehn told Racine county Young Republicans at Franksville the Democrats will "travel around the country between now and November trying to peddle pessimism and sell more spending."

Robert Lewis, farm advisor to Gov. Gaylord Nelson, told an audience in Pequette, Sunday that the Democratic platform adopted in Los Angeles is "the strongest and most realistic pledge to American farmers in the history of any political party."

Lewis said the platform includes three changes proposed by Nelson—a national dairy marketing cooperative, a national milk supply control plan and legislation for establishing farmer-controlled marketing order programs.

Washington Moves To Spur Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Washington is certain to act between now and election day to try to put more vigor into our country. The GOP administration has an obvious stake in a "look and feel" of prosperity to the economy this fall. It would be extreme naivete to believe that the government is now sharply accelerating its spending on highway construction "by coincidence" and without any consideration of the fact that on Nov. 8 you and I go to the polls.

The Democratic-controlled congress is returning next month with plans to pass a confidence in continued prosperity. No responsible Washington authority is entirely satisfied with its performance today, no matter what he says in public. Business right now is "sitting on a high plateau," and in our country with its growing labor force and tremendous productive capacity "sitting" is simply not good enough.

2. Mid-July is an exceedingly poor time to judge our economy and business could perk up smartly in early fall when the summer doldrums are over, the back-to-work and back-to-school spending movements get into high gear, steel production surely will be on the rise, etc. September is now admitted to be the crucial month.

3. The economy's upswing in the fall may not be strong enough, though, to eliminate the threat of a slide into recession. Washington moves in three weeks may help to avert this danger.

The GOP administration already has ordered a doubling of the amount of federal highway construction in the next three months—a step clearly designed to spur road construction, thus overall construction, and thus the general economy. It has eased the terms of FHA mortgages clearly to give some aid to building.

It is expected to order a step-up in the placing of defense contracts between now and October—again, clearly to invigorate areas feeling the current letdown and brighten the whole pattern.

The Democratic-controlled congress has president's veto salaries. But its biggest steps are still to come.

On the August agenda are bills to: Hike the minimum wage; subsidize medical care for the aged; stimulate housing; facilitate school construction; aid urban transit; provide tax relief for self-employed who set up pension programs. While the outcome of all this legislation is in doubt, some positive results are likely even in the torrid, politics-riddled Washington summer of 1960. Whatever results are chalked up will be biased toward spending, not economy.

The federal reserve system has moved the most so far. It has been pouring funds into the banking system to encourage banks to be more liberal in loans to you. It has,

Chickenpox in Adults May Cause Death

Chickenpox in adults is "a potentially fatal disease," a Texas physician warns.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Stewart A. Fish, Dallas, said that chickenpox, which is usually a mild childhood disease, may cause severe complications and death in adults.

Fish reported four fatal cases of chickenpox occurring during pregnancy. In three of the cases, the mothers were exposed to the disease by their children. In all four cases, the disease affected the lungs and other parts of the body.

"There is apparently no specific tendency or increased susceptibility to chickenpox during pregnancy," however, he said.

In 66 cases of disseminated chickenpox reported since 1942, the sex distribution is fairly equal, he said, and the association with pregnancy is probably coincidental.

The mortality among patients with disseminated chickenpox has been estimated to be between 10 and 30 per cent, he added.

Since no drug therapy is available to cure disseminated chickenpox or modify its course once the lungs and other parts of the body are involved, Fish urged early hospitalization of patients with disseminated chickenpox.

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Twenty-two youths, whom persons connected with the case have felt perfectly justified in calling "hoodlums," were arrested in from Green Bay, but from one crack by Green Bay police during the American Legion state convention parade Sunday afternoon.

The gang was rounded up and charged with disorderly conduct at Harold Ysebaert's Bowers tavern, a "beer only" spot on the 300 block of Main street after misconduct involving spectators standing in front of the tavern to watch the veterans parade.

Others were nabbed outside the tavern. Although all of the arrested mob were local residents, the chief noted that many are not hoodlums. The first two of the disorderly conduct cases were disposed of this morning in police court by Police Justice John Sullivan. The appearances today were made by Forrest Fournier, 19 311 S. Chestnut Ave., fined $25 and $11.12 court costs, and Keith Campbell, 19 1500 14th ave., who was fined $25 and $8.82 costs.

Among their actions police noted breaking bottles, pouring beer down onto sidewalk, and throwing fireworks into the assembled crowd, and considerable profanity. Some of the miscreants were brought down from the roof of the tavern.

Schlieve May Head Meetings With Stokely

Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer of teamsters local 563, has been recommended to serve as chairman of a teamster committee that will meet with Stokely-Carmichael, Inc., to discuss regional contracts.

Elmer McCargar, local 487, Mankato, Minn., was recommended to serve as secretary. Both suggestions will be presented to James R. Hoffa, Teamster president, for confirmation.

The contract would cover 13 states, mainly Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Minnesota. The representatives were in agreement on drafting data pertinent to the contract and on setting a goal for common expiration of all agreements.

Wesley Carter, Green Bay, also is a committee member.

Mother Discovers Dead Infant Son

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schultz, 832 Jefferson street, Menasha, was found dead by his mother at 9 15 a.m. Saturday. Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coronor, said, "It looks like suffocation."

Mrs. Schultz tried unsuccessfully to revive the 27-day-old child by breathing into his mouth. The infant, Paul, had been fed at 2 30 a.m. Saturday.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Westgor Funeral home, Neenah, with the Rev. A. W. Triefel in one mounted steam threshing machine, countless color clowns, two big 6-foot Uncle Sams and one pint-sized one and enough antique cars to fill a modern supermarket parking lot.

Survivors besides the parents are one brother David, four sisters, Cindy, Barbara, Kathy and Laurel, all at home, a grandmother, Mrs. Anabelle Myhre, Neenah, and a grandfather, Alfred Schultz, Aniwa.

Green Bay Sees Spectacle

Legion Stages Colorful, Musical Marching Line

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — It's an American parade unit passed the reviewing stand in old city stadium. Unusual costumes were worn by the Appleton Americans; Drum and Bugle corps of post 38, in Latin American dress; the Racine WMCA Kilties, a junior drum and bugle corps, outfitted in Scottish plaid; another crowd pleasing unit in the parade was a Negro squad, in air force blues, "The Spirits of Racine," who staged some jive beat drills, that never were in any standard manual of arms and never will be for that matter.

Members of Appleton drum and bugle corps who suffered fainting spells during American Legion music festival Saturday night in connection with the convention were Chuck Riley, Tom Bourain and Daryl Hok.

Three Appleton girls who suffered fainting spells while watching the legion convention parade Sunday afternoon were identified as Sandra Withabais, 13, Louise Hohmberger, 13, and Jean Grutz, 15.

A city of Appleton float invited the legionnaires to convene there in 1962.

Boy Says He Stabbed Woman To Qualify for Teenage Club

Milwaukee — A 14-year-old Grant county farm boy who police say stabbed a Milwaukee woman to qualify for membership in a teenage club in his community was in custody today in a hospital here today.

The youth was run down by an automobile and seriously injured shortly after the stabbing. The woman not seriously hurt, was treated at the same hospital and released.

Police gave this version of the stabbing Saturday night. The boy came here Saturday from rural Boscobel with his family and went with a friend to a Milwaukee apartment building.

There they encountered Albertine B. Bell, 48, who was cleaning an apartment. The boy offered to get Miss Bell some cleaning powder.

When the boy returned, Miss Bell was cleaning a bathtub. The boy stabbed her in the back and fled. As he ran into the street, he was struck by an automobile.

Police became suspicious of the boy when they learned he was injured in front of the house where Miss Bell was working. They questioned him and he admitted the stabbing.

Sheriff Naomi Seemeyer of 2 p.m. Tuesday at Bethlehem Grant county said she knew of Lutheran church, Hortonville, no such club in the Boscobel with burial in Highland Memorial park, Appleton.

Five Injured in Four Accidents

Appleton Couple Receives Bruises in Crash of Two Cars

Five persons were injured in four accidents investigated over the weekend by the Outagamie county police.

Frances A. Rougeau, 61, of 1203 E. Wisconsin avenue, and her wife, Alice, 54, received bumps, bruises and possible chest injuries when their car was struck by one driven by Lester F. Snell, 23, of 1712 E. Wisconsin avenue shortly before 7 p.m. Sunday.

Town of Freedom
Rougeau, police said, was driving east on County Trunk C in the town of Freedom, stopped for a stop sign at the intersection with E and pulled onto the highway. The Snell car, Rougeau said, struck his machine on the right side.

Edward Ehnard, 35, route 1, Kaukauna, and Walter Harford, 58, of route 1, West De Pere, received face cuts when the car in which they were riding went out of control for 210 feet and struck a culvert on County Trunk S about 6 40 p.m. Sunday. Ehnard, police said, was sitting behind the wheel of the car when officers arrived, but denied he was the driver.

Facial Lacerations
Stanley Buman, 18, of route 1, Appleton, received face cuts when his motorcycle struck the rear of a car driven by Anthony Gaschlan, 18, route 2, Appleton. The accident happened in the town of Grand Chute at Casaloma drive south of Spencer street.

Thomas Parto, 18, of 820 Arthur street, Menasha, escaped injury when his car went into the ditch on Highway 10 in the town of Dale about 10 30 p.m. Sunday. Parto told police an oncoming car started to skid and he drove into the ditch to avoid a crash.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new Colosano gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) Colosano moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) Colosano's unexcelled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And Colosano acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon. Colosano relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And Colosano's on't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get Colosano today! Introductory size 43c.

Employees Firm Elects Two New Vice Presidents

Stanley F. Staples and Dale Snure have been elected to the newly created posts of senior vice presidents of Employers Mutuals of Wausau and C. E. Smith has been named vice president in charge of sales and advertising. It was announced by J. M. Sweitzer, president.

Staples, formerly vice president of sales and advertising, will be in charge of home office staff operations including sales and advertising, underwriting, accident prevention, claims, medical and audit. Snure will be in charge of branch office operations.

R. J. Wendorff, formerly assistant counsel, also was elected assistant general counsel, Sweitzer announced.

Wisconsin delegates also showed more than an ideological concern about the vice presidential nominee's ideas and congressional voting record.

Many of these men are candidates for offices at home. To them the idea of carrying Mississippi or Georgia for the national ticket is not quite as important as being elected to the state senate or another local office.

Some of them felt that Proxmire, who doesn't have to worry about courting votes for himself until 1964, was showing a streak of selfishness as he tried to stamp down a revolt in the Wisconsin delegation when Johnson was nominated without a roll call.

The Wisconsin party at the convention, including delegates, alternates and interest in an assiduous campaign of criticism of the Texas leader.

Many of them were overheard speculating what the roll call would have shown had the Wisconsin delegates been given a chance to vote for Kennedy's on Johnson.

The caucus debate suggested at least half a dozen dissenters. But the chances are that Proxmire should have been so eager to defend as a more — and that the Wisconsin party commanders are secretly relieved that the ears of Gov. Leroy Collins were acute enough to find a two-thirds majority on the acclamation motion that many of them could not discern.

Old Coffee Mills, New Namebrands Meet in Pine River General Store

BY STERLING SORESEN

Pine River — A 54-foot coffee mill, a tobacco "poor box," horses' fly nets, whiffletrees, whetstones, kerosene lamps, a cracker barrel, grain cradles, butter tubs, high-button shoes and fit-yourself eye glasses are mingled conglomerately with modern day "name brands" and green groceries in a "living museum," the J and M General store here.

100 Years Ago

This apparent disparity of the old and new stocks a general store that could take its place in a turn of the century setting. There's a hitching rail and outwardly, the sleepy hamlet and placid mill pond is reminiscent of the horse-and-buggy days, minus, al-though, a line-up of teams and lumber wagons.

Operated by John and Mary Zick, formerly of Neenah, the store has roots in the old New England general store, the shop on Highway 47 in the pot-bellied stove, et al. And town of Menasha.

the store is living up to its heritage.

Founded here over 100 years ago by a New Englander, A. M. Kimball, a former area

Over the years, some of yesteryear's demands gave way to products and produce of the changing scene. But much of the old remains, has been uncovered from attics and warehouses, and is featured in the store, billed by the Zicks as "Wisconsin's oldest general store."

"Yes," they add, a "living museum."

In this contention, they are correct, although how it ranks

Hundreds of bolts of "dry

shelves; something like 80

varieties of spices and condi-

ers and jaw-breaking rock

candy.

Plan From Eye Level of Child For His Room

Menasha — When planning and buying furnishings for your child's room, take a look at the pieces from his eye level. Plan his room for him, not for an adult. All pieces of furniture in the room will suit the child better if they are small in size.

Plan storage shelves and chests so they are at the child's level. They will need to be low for comfort, sturdy enough to stand rough handling and have a scruff proof finish so they stand the wear.

Closest rods that are set low and open shelves that are low but planned for later raising are practical. Try to keep any storage at the eye level of the child if you expect him to make good use of it and do his own getting in and putting

Baptist Leader Explains Higher Education, Financing Plans

Green Lake — "The first responsibility for financing a college education rests with the family and student himself," Dr. Warren Mild, director of educational services for the American Baptist board of education and publication, told American Baptist laymen and women's organizations Friday.

Dr. Mild presented a new project in Christian higher education, "Planning the Right Education Program."

The project is designed to assist American Baptist parents in getting their sons and daughters through college to dramatize to American Baptist laymen and women the need for their children to go to college, and to instruct parents in planning for the Christian higher education of their children.

"Families are not saving one-tenth enough per year to pay for education in the future," Dr. Mild pointed out. During 1961-62, each local society and fellowship will hold a program on planning a college education, making use of denominational program materials and a local educator as guest speaker.

Men's Conference

"This One Thing I Do" is the theme of the national conference of American Baptist Men, which opened Saturday at the American Baptist Assembly. About 600 laymen and their families were expected to attend.

Designed to provide leadership training in the fields of "man to man evangelism" and program planning, the conference will include workshops led by laymen and ministers.

Pine River Store Spans 100 Years

among Wisconsin's "oldest" general stores is uncertain. But it possesses the aura of the general store remembered fondly by those near the three-quarters century mark.

Many of the appurtenances of the old remain—spice box, a glassed-in peanut vender, barrel staves, iron "sad" or flat irons, shoe scrapers, boned dresses, bolts of heavy black "widow's weeds" or mourning veiling, bowler hats and whale-boned corsets weighing about five pounds.

Present today are vestiges of the era when the general store was the community social center. This is the round, wooden "poor box," kept filled with tobacco, available free to those who would fill their cornucopia or "take a chew." When available, clay pipes are passed out free to regulars.

"Setting Space"

Another old-days, general store custom revived by the Zicks is that of providing "setting space" for village idlers and those who would while away a leisure period down at the store.

"Can't indulge in this at the supermarket — get run-down by the carts," one oldster here notes.

While the store is "rural" and somewhat bucolic, it is not "musty," and villagers and tourists alike can take a journey back into bygone years and yet get all of the market needs at the Pine River store.

The Zicks tell you they attempt to make "doing the trading" and going to town a reasonably memorable experience, something as it was back in the halcyon days.

Board Ponders New Menasha Park Pavilion

Would Replace Old Structure In Smith Park

Menasha — A Jefferson park pavilion, to replace the 1890's - vintage structure in Smith park, was discussed at last week's meeting of the park and recreation board. Chairman Robert Schwartz told the board the present pavilion is unsafe and located in the wrong area. Recreation director Robert Vanevenhoven was directed to set up an itinerary to neighboring cities for the board's information. He also was directed to investigate various types of park buildings and make a recommendation to the board. Wisconsin Politicians Learn Techniques From Kennedy Example

Los Angeles — Several key Wisconsin Democratic politicians have had an inside view of the Kennedy campaign machine which has won the admiration of the nation's professional politicians. There is little doubt that the lessons they learned and the techniques they saw proved in the carefully blueprinted 4-year Kennedy drive will be adapted for Wisconsin campaign management, with perhaps some modifications required by Wisconsin conditions and circumstances. Among the Wisconsin front row participants in the magnificent campaign machine was Chairman Patrick J. Lucey of the Wisconsin state Democratic committee. Some Wisconsin observers already wonder whether some of the characteristics that Lucey has displayed in his thus far successful management of the Wisconsin majority party resulted from the lessons he learned from the Kennedy team which he quietly joined long before the fact became generally known in his state. Other ambitious young men of Wisconsin had a part in the Kennedy organization — although it is difficult to appraise their comparative positions in the small army of specialists and promoters and runners built up by Sen. Kennedy since 1956. Among them are Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds of Green Bay, who made a good start for a political career when he won office in 1958; Mayor Ivan Nestingen of Madison, who has been captain at the capital's city hall for two terms and is starting to scout the possibilities for other offices; Paul Corbin of Janesville, a professional promotion man who is one of Lucey's chief organization and money raising lieutenants, and Peter Dugal of Caledonia, chairman of the ninth district party organization. Dugal's Work Dugal probably has earned more credits in the Kennedy

Three Menasha Netters Lose In State Meet

'Chuck' Blockinger Of Oshkosh Wins Junior Boys Title

Menasha — Two Menasha netters reached the semi-finals in the state junior tennis tournament at Wauwatosa Friday and Saturday before bowing out and another was defeated in the second round. "Chuck" Blockinger of Oshkosh was the only area entrant to bring back a title. He took the junior boys crown with a victory over Craig Adelman of Fox Point. Scores of the matches were 6-3, 2-6, 6-0 and 6-3. In the junior girls semi-finals Sue Rhyner of Menasha was defeated 6-0, 6-0 by campaign account books than many others because he defied a strong Humphrey bias in his neighborhood to don the Kennedy colors. His district elected Humphrey delegates by solid margins. He is the party organization leader in a district where the ranking party politician, is Rep. Lester Johnson, whose melancholy face after the Kennedy nomination left few doubts about his sentiments. The stories told here by other Wisconsin convention delegates last week show the extravagant degree to which the detailed work of the Kennedy general staff was organized. State Index? One account had it that the Kennedy people had prepared a state card index with complete biographical information on every conceivable important Wisconsin Democratic politician—the delegates, alternates, visiting political moguls, wives and families, hobbies, prejudices and shadings of political philosophy. Several sophisticated Wisconsin veterans spoke with startled admiration of the discerning psychological skills of the Kennedy headquarters. During the crucial West Virginia campaign, several Wisconsin politicians of comparatively minor rank were telephoned regularly for advice. It was heady stuff.

Menasha Cops Title In Legion Regional Baseball Tourney

Defeats Sturgeon Bay, Kaukauna With Heavy Hitting on Saturday

Menasha — Heavy hitting in a pair of games netted the Menasha Junior American Legion baseball team the regional championship in tournament finals at Appleton's Goodland field Saturday.

In the afternoon Menasha took the measure of Sturgeon Bay, 12-7 and in a night game throttled Kaukauna, 13-4.

Earlier in the week, Sturgeon Bay earned a semi-final berth with a win over Appleton and Menasha defeated Algoma. Kaukauna moved into the finals with a victory over Neenah.

Coach Bill Ciske's Menashians pounded 17 hits in the win over Sturgeon Bay and Louie Hemauer received credit for the victory. Against Kaukauna, the champions lashed out 19 hits and coasted on a fine 7-hitter by Bill Becker.

Pairings for district playoffs are expected to be announced this week after other tournaments are completed.

Against Sturgeon Bay, Menasha jumped off to a 6-0 lead after three innings and was never headed. The losers played a pair in the fourth and three in the fifth to cut the lead to one run but Menasha rallied in the last of the fifth for six more tallies to make it 12-5. In the big inning 11 batters went to the plate.

Sturgeon Bay scored single runs in the sixth and seventh but could not bring other base runners around. The losers stranded a pair in the sixth, three in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

Shukoski its

Bob Shukoski was the leading hitter for Menasha in the afternoon tilt with four singles in five trips.

Sturgeon Bay notched 15 hits but they were well scattered by Hemauer. Dick Stegeman's run scoring double in the fourth was the only extra base blow for the losers.

In the Kaukauna game, Becker was in control all the way. He hurled shutout ball for the first four frames, allowed a single tally in the fifth and then did not allow another run until the eighth when Kaukauna counted three.

Meanwhile, Menasha pulled up a lead by scoring in every inning but the eighth. Becker set the offensive pace with four hits, including a pair of triples. Phil Keller, Dick Koerner and Bob Schmidt also connected for 3-baggers for the winners. Keller had a pair of singles with his triple.

he pounded one to top of the Menasha Wire Works plant. Bob Maulick hit the third homer for the Papermakers when he smacked one against the Wire Works in the seventh.

Bratigan Loses

Dick Bratigan, losing pitcher for Hortonville, allowed eight hits, fanned five and walked two.

Wittenberg, on the strength of two homers by Jerry Whitehouse and another circuit blast by Rog Blaese, jumped off to a 3-0 lead over the Macs.

Menasha came to life in the sixth by exploding for five runs and then added two more in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Darrell Eggert got the Macs off on the right foot in the fifth with a leadoff homer. Fritz Heiss walked, Clem Massey doubled to put runners at second and third and Larry Gauger sent both runners home with a single.

"Butch" Konetzke then connected for the circuit to plate Gauger ahead of him.

Pair of Homers

The two runs in the seventh came on back-to-back homers by Jack Konetzke and Eggert's second of the game. In the eighth, Jim Meyer walked, went to third when "Butch" Konetzke was safe on an error and scored on Bob Karisny's sacrifice fly.

Gene Gries was the starting hurler for the Macs. He gave up four hits, including the three homers, in the five frames he worked. Jim Meyer worked the last three frames, allowing just one hit.

Wayne Kroll, Cecil hurler, stole the show against Kaukauna as he tossed a 3-hit shutout and also scored the only run of the game. Kroll struck out 12 in the process and walked three.

The lone run scored when Kroll singled in the third, advanced to second when loser, Joe Van Linn, uncorked a wild pitch or a third strike to Jerry Reiser and Art Fleming followed with a single to left.

Van Linn did a good job for Kaukauna as he allowed just four hits, fanned eight and walked just one.

Vander Wist of the Papermakers was the only hitter in

Streaking Foxes Beat Soos Twice, Open 7-Game Lead

Second Baseman Bill Mazeroski (left) and pitcher Vernon Law of the Pittsburgh Pirates sprawl at first base after a collision in the fifth inning of the first game of Sunday's doubleheader with Cincinnati. Bob Purkey of the Redlegs had bunted along the first base line and Law ran over to take the toss from Rocky Nelson. After colliding with Mazeroski Law held the ball and threw to the plate to nip Roy McMillan who tried to score from second. The Reds won, 6-5.

Lincoln Posts Ninth Win in Last 10 Games

Nears Second Place in Three-I League; Bees Drop Pair

By The Associated Press
If anyone's going to stop Fox Cities' mad rush toward the Three-I league pennant, it appears to be Lincoln.

The Foxes, who lost three of four at Lincoln recently, won their fifth straight, 2-1, over Sioux City in 10 innings Sunday. The Foxes now lead the Soos and Burlington by seven games.

Johnston Homers
Lincoln, meanwhile, kept pace with Fox Cities, beating Topeka, 4-2, on Manly Johnston's twelfth homer in the eighth inning. The win was the Chiefs' ninth in a 10-game home stand and left them only a half game out of second place and 7½ behind the Foxes.

Tommy Aaron collected six hits as Cedar Rapids swept a day-night doubleheader from Burlington, 11-9 and 9-3. Burlington made seven errors in the first game in which five homers were struck.

Last-place Green Bay continued to make life miserable for Des Moines, beating the Demons for the ninth time in 12 games. The score was 10-2 with Dom Carrasquel and Dick Smith each hitting two homers. One of Carrasquel's was with the bases full.

Detroit Coaches Say Reichow Might Play Halfback This Fall
Detroit —P— Jerry Reichow, who has played both quarterback and end for the Detroit Lions, may get a chance to use his passing talent from the running halfback position this fall.

The Lions coaching staff feels the threat of Reichow passing from the halfback spot would keep opposing defenses from tightening up. He is considered a dangerous runner as well.

Dean Chance Wins, 2 to 1, in 10 Innings

Sioux City, Iowa—Continuing to retaliate against their one-time nemesis, Sioux City, the Fox Cities Foxes annexed a pair of weekend victories to enlarge their Three-I league lead to a whopping seven games.

The Foxes stopped the Soos, 8-3, Saturday night behind Pat Gillick, and 2-1, in 10 innings, Sunday behind Dean Chance. In making it three straight over Sioux City (which had beaten the Foxes seven times in their first eight meetings), the Foxes extended their overall victory streak to five and opened the biggest lead any team has enjoyed in the league this season.

Back Home Tuesday
The Foxes wind up their series against the Soos here tonight before returning home Tuesday night to play Lincoln in the opener of a 6-game stand at Goodland field.

"Photi" Anthony doubled home Pete Ward in both the first and tenth innings Sunday to enable Chance to chalk up his sixth win of the season.

Outduels Bass
Chance scattered 10 hits, walked two and struck out seven in outdueling Norm Bass. The Soos hurler allowed eight hits—two each by Anthony, Charlie Johnson and Cal Ripken—walked seven and fanned 3.

In the Foxes' first inning, Frank Montgomery walked but was forced by Bob Saverine. Ward forced Saverine at second, then raced home on Anthony's double to right.

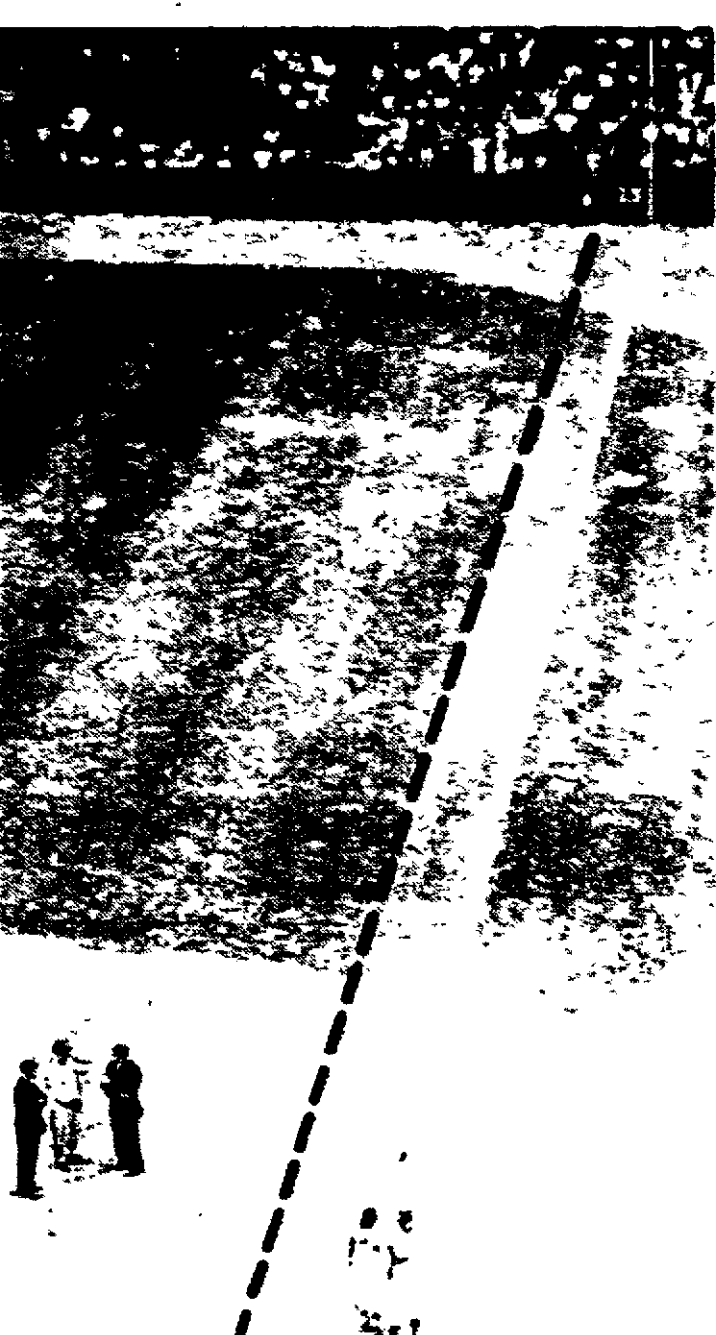

The Soos tied it in the fourth. Junior Reedy singled but was forced by Bud Spiers. Chuck Bennett grounded out, the runner taking second. Virgil Bernhardt's singled scored the run.

Montgomery opened the Foxes' tenth with a single to left. Saverine struck out. Ward forced Montgomery at second. The try for a double play just missed, and Soos Manager Bob Hofman was thrown out of the game after a strenuous objection.

Saturday, southpaw Gillick coasted to his ninth straight win on the wings of a strong attack sparked by "Boog" Powell's pair of homers. The circuit drives raised Powell's quota to five in a 5-game span and tied him for the club lead—at seven—with Ward.

Outfielder Roger Maris is shown complaining to two umpires about the debris tossed at him in right field at Briggs stadium Sunday. Detroit fans rioted when New York's Bill Skowron hit a disputed home run, called a fair ball by umpire Joe Paparella. The diagram shows the path taken by the ball in right field. The controversy occurred in the second game of the Yankee-Tiger doubleheader. The Tigers won both games, 12-2 and 3-2.

Freedom shaded Valley Fair, 3-1, Sunday night in a rain-shortened Fox River Valley Amateur league baseball game at Goodland field.

The contest was halted in the last of the seventh with Valley Fair batting Freedom had scored in the top half of the inning so the score reverted back to the last complete frame—the sixth.

Mike Vanden Heuvel pitched for Freedom and allowed three hits. He struck out six and walked two. Loser Dick Wankey yielded six hits, fanning five and walking four.

Takes Lead
Freedom went ahead, 1-0, in the first Don Vande Wetering reached base on an error, stole second and scored on a double by Zoratsky. The winners made it 2-0 in the top of the third on Don Vande Wetering's triple and Jim Vande Wetering's single.

The losers counted one in the bottom half of the inning. After two outs, Harry Johnson singled, stole second, went to third on Joe Rickert's 1-bagger and scored on a safety by Brian Zorzel.

The visitors added 1-run insurance in the top of the sixth Dan Carney singled, moved to second and third on consecutive errors and raced home when Wankey balked.

Braves Stop Phillies for Fifth in Row

Low Burdette Scatters 11 Hits; Milwaukee Trails by 2½ Games

Philadelphia —P— The Milwaukee Braves appear to be making their move in the close National league baseball race.

Heavy Hitting
Steady pitching by veteran

After stumbling occasionally in the first half of the season but still remaining within striking distance of the pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates, the Braves seem to have regained the poise that made them champions in other years.

They gained ground on the Pirates Sunday when they won their fifth straight game by beating Philadelphia, 7-3.

While the Braves divided a doubleheader with Cincinnati, the Pirates won both games, 12-2 and 3-2.

Low Burdette allowed 11 hits but scattered them well and seldom was in trouble. He didn't allow a walk and struck out five men to become the first Brave hurler to win 10 games this season. His record is 10-4.

Big Gene Conley, a former Brave, was the loser. He now is 6-5.

One of the hits off Burdette was a freak triple by Tony Taylor in the fourth when he kept bouncing along the runway of the scoreboard in left field. When it finally came down, Hank Aaron rumbled to Chuck Cottier, who fumbled the ball long enough for Taylor to score.

Milwaukee got to Conley for two runs in the first inning, added two more in the third then salted away the victory with a single, run in the sixth and two more in the seventh when Mathews unloaded his nineteenth homer of the season over the right field wall after Crandall had walked.

Singles Run in
Crandall singled home a run in the first inning after Billy Bruton had walked and stole second. Crandall went to third on Henry Aaron's single and scored on Wes Covington's sacrifice fly.

In the third, Crandall singled again and scored on a double by Mathews. Covington Turn to Page 2, Col. 6

Musial Advances to Fifth Place in All-Time Hit Parade

St. Louis —P— Unaware that anything unusual was happening, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals stepped to the plate Sunday, Chicago Cub pitcher Bob Anderson fired a fast ball and Musial rapped a sharp single to right field. A few moments later the crowd of 28,661 in Busch stadium erupted with a roar heard for blocks.

Musial had just clubbed the 3,252nd hit of his major league career. It put him in fifth place in the all-time major league hit parade, one notch ahead of Nap Lajoie.

Musial tied Lajoie's mark of 3,251 in the second inning of the second game of a doubleheader against Chicago. That hit also was a clean single to right.

Later, Musial said he wasn't aware that he was about the surpass Lajoie. He laughed and said: "Maybe it's a good thing I didn't know about it. I might have gotten nervous and bled."

Base hits these days are not unusual for the aging but always dangerous Musial. His 2-for-4 performance Sunday left him at .312 highest on the team. He did not play in the first game.

Discretionary Buying Power In County Up

34.7 Per Cent of Family Income Goes
For Basic Needs

Outagamie county families spend only 34.7 per cent of their after-tax income for food, shelter and clothing, figures compiled by the Standard Rate and Data Service, the bureau of labor statistics and others indicate.

This compares with 35.2 per cent of net income required for them in fiscal 1956.

In Outagamie county, 16.7 per cent of income goes for food, 3.3 per cent for apparel and an estimated 14.7 per cent for housing including the cost of fuel, light and refrigerator.

Discretionary Power
The 65.3 per cent of income that is not used for these basic requirements represents discretionary buying power. It goes into services, insurance, cars, entertainment and the thousand and one other things that dollars will buy.

This discretionary income averaged $3,885 per household in Outagamie county last year.

Three years ago, the amount left was $3,452 per household.

In a poor economy, notes Prof. George Katona of the University of Michigan in his new study entitled "The Powerful Consumer," most people must spend all their income for food, shelter and clothing, merely to survive.

As the economy moves upward from that level, a progressively smaller and smaller percentage of income is required to pay for these basic necessities.

In Outagamie county, after-tax incomes averaged $5,950 per household during the last fiscal year. This compares with $5,327 in fiscal 1956. Many households have more than one wage earner.

New England Life Tops $6 Billion in Force

Individual life insurance in force with the New England Mutual Life Insurance company passed the $6 billion mark during the first quarter of 1960, President O. Kelley Anderson has announced.

Record individual sales of $235.3 million during the same period, the highest in the company's history, and 3 per cent over comparable 1959 figures, brought the individual in-force total to $6,035 million, Anderson said.

Group term life insurance in force rose to $701 million, making the total amount of life insurance in force $6,736,666,000.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. My husband died last month and I understood the application I filed with my local social security office was for survivor's monthly payments for me and my two children under 18. Now my neighbor tells me I should have also filed an application to receive the death payment. When should this application be filed?

A. The application which you filed for monthly benefits will also be used as an application to pay you the lump-sum death payment. It is not necessary in your case to file any other application form.

Q. My deceased husband never worked under social security so I will not get widow's benefits. I was born April 16, 1899. How many quarters of credit will I need to draw social security benefits of my own? Is it necessary for the work to be done consecutively?

A. You will need 20 quarters (five years) of social security credit. The work does not need to be done consecutively. Work done under social security anytime after January 1, 1937, could be counted.

Q. I've worked under social security since 1937. It's my understanding that my wife and children under 18 will receive monthly benefits if I should die. I also have some insurance plans to cover them in the case of my death. Will they still receive social security payments even though they will be getting other insurance payments?

A. Yes, their financial status after your death will not affect their rights to receive survivors benefits. Only earnings from employment can prevent their receiving payments.

Q. If a person who has worked under social security dies and leaves no widow, children or dependent parents, what, if any, benefits are paid?

A. A lump sum death payment is made to the person or persons who paid the burial expenses of the deceased. This may be the administrator of the estate. This lump sum death payment is not less than $99 and not more than $255.

The social security administration office is in the courthouse annex, 401 S. Elm street, Appleton.

Brotherhoods to Oppose Merger

Minneapolis — Railroad brotherhoods said today they will oppose merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads if the proposed goes to interstate commerce commission hearings.

Richard Bichsel, Northern Pacific chairman for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the merger proposal would be opposed on the basis it would adversely affect seniority of NP engineers.

Bichsel said employment of engineers on the GN and NP had decreased to a total of about 1,500 during recent years, the decrease being due principally to dieselization.

C. L. Birdsell, Northern Pacific chairman for the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, said his union is studying demands for protection of seniority if the merger materializes. He said protection of displaced workers would be a major issue at ICC hearings.

The merger plan, which has been approved by directors of the railroads, still needs stockholder approval and approval by several federal agencies.

Midwest Lashed by Wind, Rain

Thunderstorms lashed the central plains with heavy rain, swift winds and hail Sunday and today.

The midsummer storm was centered in Iowa, Nebraska and eastern Colorado, southward into Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle.

Portions of north and central Oklahoma were raked by winds up to 95 miles an hour and golf ball sized hail Sunday night.

More than an inch of rain in six hours drenched wide areas of eastern Nebraska and southwest Missouri. More than two inches fell at Chanute in southeast Kansas.

In the state, Wausau received two inches of rain in a short period Sunday night. Appleton got .59 inches. There were 18 individual cases of power failure in the area, all due to lightning strikes blowing out transformer fuses.

While the midwest was receiving a drenching, Salt Lake City recorded its third consecutive day of 103-degree heat. The temperature set new records high each day. Record keepers say the highest temperature ever recorded in Salt Lake City was 106 degrees, set July 21, 1931.

Explanation, Effects of Many 'Isms' are Given

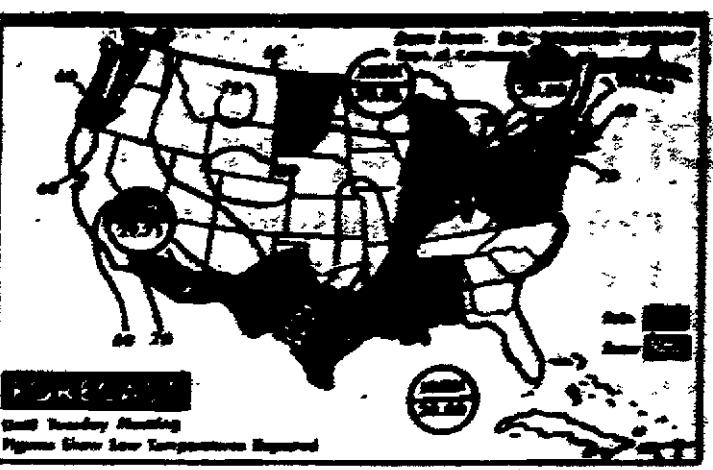

In these political days when are told and their significances are being tossed hither and thither, Ralph De Toledana's "The Coming of Fabrizze," "Lament for a Generation" was written by Ramon De Capite in an effortless, simulating style which perfectly fits the course of liberal's characters, a group of Italian immigrants in America and shows their daily life and their effect on American thinking.

Vice President Richard Nixon has written a very complimentary foreword for the book, in which the author's personal accounts of the Spanish war, the Moscow trials and the McCarthy era and shows it to his followers. The story of their successes and foreknowledge of the crash is hilarious and suspenseful.

Other books on display at the Appleton public library this week include eight fiction titles: "Death Mask" by E. L. Peters, "Murder After a Fashion" by Spencer Dean, "Lords of Atlantis" by Wallace West, "The Syndicate" by Dennis Rhodes, "The Dinner Party" by Rachel Maddux, "Abel's Daughter" by Rachel Maddux and "A European Education" by Roman Cary.

Non-fiction books on display are "Man — The Bridge Between Two Worlds" by Franz E. Winkler, "The Word's Great Sermons" edited by S. E. Frost, Jr., "Shorter Atlas of the Bible" by L.

Scattered Showers and Thundershowers are expected over most of the United States tonight, including the Great Lakes area, middle Atlantic states, western New England, central Mississippi valley, the southern tier of states from the southern Rockies to the eastern Gulf coast and in the northern plains. Fog and drizzle is forecast for the north Pacific coast.

Brightly Clothed Family Of Yarn Dolls Fun to Make

BY CAPPY DICK
Did you ever try making a whole family of yarn dolls? You can make them from scraps of mother's knits. It's lots of fun. If you use pink or tan yarn for the bodies and bright-colored yarn for the clothes, the dolls will seem very real.

To make the father of the family, wrap the yarn around a piece of cardboard three inches wide and five inches long. A smaller cardboard,

Colored yarn is wound over tan yarn on cardboard. four inches long, will do for the mother and for the children it should be only three inches long because they will be the smallest dolls of all. Wrap the yarn at least 20 times around the cardboard as shown in Figure 1. The body color — pink or tan — should be wrapped first, then wrap the brighter colors over those strands.

Tie all the strands together at the top and turn the knot inside. Cut the other end of the strands and remove them from the cardboard. Tie a piece of yarn around the neck, then tie the remaining strands together at the waist, then divide them into two bunches for legs and tie them at the

Legion Fight Berken Defends His Firing of Paper's Editor

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Last spring State Commander Lloyd J. Berken removed Clayton Helmer, Bel-denville, as a member of the newspaper's editorial board in a dispute over finances of the publication and on the question of whether a special national issue should be put out to promote William Haese, Milwaukee, as a candidate for national commander in October.

Berken took the floor to defend his action in signing an advertising contract with a commercial agency for the newspaper. He said it costs $1,000 a month to publish and that for the first five months of this year only $250 was realized in advertising revenue. Now, he reported, net revenue of the newspaper is up to $3,500 a month. He also claimed that the special national issue would have cost only about $360 extra.

Helmer countered that the special issue would cost "about $10,000" and that the state legion newspaper should be banned from endorsing any candidate for any legion office.

The newspaper investigation was declared defeated in a 10-9 vote when debate was shut off after 30 minutes, but then Berken opponents demanded a poll by district delegation.

The result of the time-consuming poll: 352 against calling for an investigation and 67 for the resolution.

Prices Move Up
Or Down Fractions
For Key Issues

New York — (A) — The stock market had little ambition early this afternoon, showing a mixed price pattern with a tendency to go lower. Trading was dull.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among key stocks.

A few of the more volatile stocks fell more than a point as stop-loss orders were touched off.

The market was still lurking in the vicinity of a "support level" which some Wall Streeters hoped would serve as a springboard for a technical rebound. The business news background provided not much in the way of stimulus for rising prices. International uncertainties still caused hesitation.

Some of the aircraft-missile and electronic stocks moved ahead but most major groups were irregular.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.08 at 629.16, having penetrated slightly the indicated support level of about 631.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .40 to 218.40 with the industrials down 1.00, the rails down .20 and the utilities up .20.

BANK STOCKS

The history of our large banks in this country lead us to believe that there are attractive situations in good bank stocks that will give a generous yield and have growth prospects.

We Recommend the Purchase of:

IRVING TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK—This bank has paid a dividend for over 50 years and at the current rate together with stock dividends, last year the stock yielded 5%. Earnings this year should increase over a year ago and continuous strong demands for credit and higher returns on loans are the chief factors pointing to further earning gains.

MANUFACTURERS TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK—This is the seventh largest bank in the country. Earnings have moved up steadily over the years and, except for 1958, shareholders have been rewarded with larger dividends each year since 1949. Current indications are that net operating earnings may rise to around $5.20 per share compared to $4.69 in 1959. We believe there is considerable room for either an increase in dividends or perhaps a stock dividend.

Climbers Try To Reach 3 Stranded Men

Pan, France—Two teams of mountaineers today struggled toward the summit of 9,263-foot Pic Du Midi. Two mountain climbers dangled there on a rope, a 1,000-foot precipice below them, and a third climber was on a nearby ledge. The two climbers on the rope were believed dead, but the third person on the ledge may still be alive.

A tourist spotted a red spot on the white flank of the mountain yesterday. With binoculars, he could see that it was the red jacket of a climber attached to a rope. Then he spotted the second figure on the same rope swaying in space.

A helicopter pilot managed to get within 20 yards of the party despite intense turbulence in the area. He said none of the three climbers gave any sign of life although he maneuvered the helicopter in the area for 10 minutes.

The Pic Du Midi is in the Pyrenees, almost on the Spanish border.

Und Now, Der Ztory of Charlie Und Der Cherman Zivil Zervize

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Bonn — I came to grips today with that bugaboo, German method, and I grappled with its worst form — civil service — and lost.

The losing of the fray is the superficial element of my story for this day, but the underlying causes — the love of the Teuton for order and method, and the glorified status of the civil servant — has written many pages of wretched German history.

My wants are simple: I had only to telegraph my story back to this newspaper. I wished to do it in the easiest way for the telegrapher Collect.

In Germany the telegraph stations are operated by the government and are usually in the city post offices. In Bonn, this is so and I taxied there to deliver my story. I asked the driver to wait; I would be, I told him. "ein minuten."

A half hour later I returned and dismissed him, for the battle was joined.

What Other Way?

The telegrapher refused to wire my story. The reason was, he said, that there are no facilities for sending newspaper articles: I would have to file some other way. (There is no other way)

I mounted my war horse. I would not go away until my story was en route. We argued, and he was the better for he had no English and my German is not adequate for a dispute of long duration.

A long line of post office customers was waiting. I told him to go send down through and we would continue our discussion. He said that they could wait; he said there is always a line there.

One of the men in the line

"The Mighty Midget" To Place a WANT-AD Dial 3-4411

kept repeating that he had never been told about the press rate and if I did not want to pay the $250, I would have to send it by other means.

But I won the point. Again he called his superior. After a long, long telephone conversation, he was apparently told that he was supposed to charge a press rate.

"Ach, yah," he said to me with an apologetic smile. Then, for reasons which I could not understand, he re-counted the 900 words.

Ach, How Much?

The bill, he said was 150 dollars. I remonstrated with him and tried to show him how he should use his instruction book, but he said he was right and he intended to do it right.

At last I convinced him. He then agreed to charge $35 which was about four times too much. But we had now talked for four hours, so I agreed.

He asked for a cash payment. Again I told him it was to be sent collect. This was grounds for a new discussion. It was not proper to send a telegram collect. On and on we went. People awaiting in line took my side, but the telegrapher would not listen to any of us.

"No, no, no." He shook his head.

Okay? Zo Zend It

Once again he called his boss, and then apologized once more. It was, he said, "okay."

Then he requested identification I showed him my passport, complete with my picture, my name, my signature and the name of this newspaper as my employer.

It wasn't enough.

Ten minutes later I took a cab back to my hotel, got a press pass, a copy of the brochure with my picture on it and labeled, "Charles House tour." I also brought an envelope addressed to me in care of this newspaper. All these I showed him. "Yah, yah, yah," he said, studying each of them for at least 10 minutes.

Alas, he found that my press pass had expired. It had the incorrect date. He would not simply would not send the story.

Favorable Weather has permitted rapid progress on construction of the new Christian education and parish center building at All Saints' Episcopal church, 400 E. College avenue. Cornerstone laying ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 7, with Bishop William H. Brady, Fond du Lac diocese, in charge. Steel joists for the first floor are being placed this week.

Goal of 5 Per Cent Annual Growth For U. S. Called Sound Policy

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Since the Democrats' main theme is that they will increase the power and influence of the nation and meet the large public needs that are now neglected, the crucial question is how all this is to be paid for. The answer of the party is that the extra revenue from taxes can be obtained in two ways. The first is to close "loopholes" target a rate of growth at the existing tax laws, for least of 5 per cent and preferably 6 per cent.

Amazing Theory Propounded. The second, and the more important, is to increase national production, and thus to collect more taxes at the existing tax rates.

Accordingly, the platform declares that "we Democrats believe that our economy can and must grow at an average rate of 5 per cent annually, almost twice as fast as our average rate since 1953." It education, on research, on its internal development. More surd clamor that democracy that in an address on June 1, 1954 tax structure will yield fragile, so self-strangling, wrangling over procedure, he declined definitely and positively.

I filed it air mail. Did it reach home?

(Editor's note: Yes, Charles, it finally got here)

at a rate of economic growth which is less than 3 per cent.

According to this amazing theory, which defies all common sense, if we raise the rate of growth, we shall be ruined by inflation, and if we spend more for public purposes, we shall have lost our sacred liberty. This amazing theory holds that our rich society is too poor to finance its public needs, and that our free society is in a strait-jacket which prevents it from doing all the things it needs, though the labor, the resources, the capital equipment, and the know-how are more than ample.

The proponents of this theory like to say that they are the true defenders of the American way of life. But on nothing serves the propaganda of our rivals and adversaries better than this absurd clamor that democracy and free enterprise are so fragile, so self-strangling, that they cannot do justice to the nation's needs.

What is meant by an average rate of growth of 5 per cent? It does not mean that the output of the economy must increase at the rate of 5 per cent every day, every week, every month, or every year. Our economy is cyclical, it has its upswings and its downswings. And however much we succeed in regulating the business cycle, there will always be these ups and downs. What the Democrats and Gov. Rockefeller mean is that in the course of a three or five year cycle of booms and diminishing business, the average rate of growth will be about 5 per cent. In order to plan well its public and private investments the country needs confidence that the treasury, the federal reserve board and the budget bureau will see that this average rate is maintained.

There will be much debate during the campaign about how a higher rate of growth can be had. There is here no real difference of opinion between the Democrats and Gov. Rockefeller. Both maintain that the rate of growth can be raised by increasing both private and public investment. Both want to give incentive and facilities for private investment, and both believe that more must be "spent"—that is, invested—by federal, state and local governments. Such increase of investment is the way economic growth is increased.

High Rate

The 5 per cent rate, which the Democrats and Rockefeller advocate, is high. There are well qualified students of the problem, notably Prof. F. M. Bator, who believe that an annual rate of 4 per cent increase would take care of our public needs, as estimated by the Rockefeller brothers' report, over a 10-year period. They believe that 4 per cent, because it requires less investment which fluctuates so easily, will be less vulnerable in the slumps and less inflationary in the booms. Be that as it may, the Democrats' commitment to move towards 5 per cent. If they get to an annual increase of 4 per cent or somewhat more, they will know when whether they need to go on to 5 per cent. This is a sound public policy, and it makes real the party promise to augment the nation's power and to go forward towards meeting its public needs. (Copyright, 1960)
